NEW 'WAR DEAL' WITH CANADA

ALDERMEN ACT TODAY ON MORE FALL DAYLIGHT

Committee to Vote After Hearing.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

(Diagram on page 2.)

A proposed ordinance which would make thousands of Chicagoans a gift of 28 extra hours of daylight in October will receive final consideration by the city council judiciary committee today after a public hearing at 2:30 p. m. in the city hall.

Ald. John Duffy [top] and Ald. John Grealis.

The committee's action will be reported to the council for consideration on Wednesday. Ald. John J. Duffy [19th] and Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], cosponsors of the measure, yesterday expressed confidence that the committee will approve of the proposal to give Chicagoans new opportunities to take advantage of its mild autumn weather.

[Chicago sports leaders continued yesterday enthusiastically to indorse the proposed extension of daylight saving thru October, describing it as a gift of extra recreational opportunities for every one. Details, together with names and telephone numbers of members of council judiciary committee to whom citizens may express their views, are on the first page of the sports section.]

In Amendment Form.

The pending ordinance which would extend daylight saving to the last Sunday in October is in the form of an amendment to an existing time ordinance that calls for daylight saving time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September.

If the Duffy-Grealis amendment is passed, daylight time will continue thru October of this year. A few days later—on Nov. 4—a referendum will be taken. This referendum will be held with the judicial election, and this will be inexpensive. Duffy and Grealis asserted they are certain that the majority of citizens will welcome the gift of extra daylight this fall and will vote to continue the plan.

Only Referendum Cited.

This procedure, it was explained, is patterned closely after a precedent of two decades ago when Chicagoans in a similar referendum—on Nov. 2, 1920—voted overwhelmingly for daylight saving from the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in October.

Ald. Duffy pointed out that this was the only time in the history of the city that the voters had a chance to express themselves on the question of extra daylight in the fall. Chicagoans in 1920 enjoyed extra daylight in October, and went to the polls on Nov. 2.

The ordinance, which was approved by a majority of 61,151, had been adopted in August, 1920.

Changed Without a Vote.

Daylight saving was continued under this plan thru October, 1921, after which the city council, at the behest of a few of its members who had been against the ordinance from the beginning, amended the measure to its present form. The voters were never given a chance to express themselves on the change altho in a time referendum in 1936 they again approved of the principle of daylight saving by a ratio of more than 2½ to 1.

In support of their contention that a majority of citizens favor extending daylight saving, Ald. Duffy and Grealis cited figures from the 1920 referendum. At that time the vote tallies of men and women were kept separately.

Balloting Is Analyzed.

Records show that 220,488 women voted on the question with 123,720 or more than 56 per cent in favor of the proposition. Of 424,651 men who took part, 229,425 or nearly 55 per cent likewise approved of the measure.

The records also show, the aldermen found, that more votes were cast on the time question than on any of several other separate questions submitted to the voters in con-

Forest Fires Rage in East; Enter Towns

New York, April 20 (AP).—Forest fires, some of which raged out of control well into the night, blackened thousands of acres of woodland in seven states today, destroyed scores of homes, and caused two deaths and injuries to many.

In forests made tinder dry by a two weeks' warm spell, 145 fires raged in West Virginia, 45 swept New Jersey, and numerous others were reported in New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

One firefighter died in West Virginia, either burned to death or killed by a falling tree, and one man died of a heart attack while defending his home near Lakewood, in the Jersey pine belt where one of the day's worst fires threatened the resort town's business and main residential sections before it was checked. Lakewood has a population of 8,500. At least 44 of its homes were destroyed.

Town Is Encircled.

The town of Widen in West Virginia was still encircled by fire late at night. Scores of homes and some churches were reported destroyed in Maryland.

Fifteen soldiers stationed at Fort Dix, N. J., were injured when an army truck taking them to one fire overturned. Three thousand soldiers battled one major and two minor fires on the Fort Dix artillery range.

Fanned by 40 mile an hour winds, fires for a time endangered the barracks at Fort Devens, Mass. Several homes were destroyed and many families forced to flee. Six hundred Fort Devens soldiers joined firefighters at nearby Leominster and then were called back to battle two blazes inside fort property

Ask for More Help.

Thousands of acres at Leominster, Rutland, North Andover, Dover, Woburn, and Wilmington were burned over in the Massachusetts fire. Eight departments and 500 men fought for several hours into the night before they brought under control a furious blaze which was spreading toward the heavily traveled Boston-Hartford turnpike at Sutton.

In Maryland, where scores of fires were reported, the greatest blaze was in the vicinity of Green Haven, resort town 15 miles south of Baltimore. With several fires sweeping uncontroled toward Green Haven, which contains more than 600 homes, mostly summer places, forestry department officials late tonight gave up efforts to save it. Residents fled late tonight.

Thousands of Acres Burn.

Other great stretches of timberland were ablaze, wiping out livestock and wild game in wholesale quantities.

Thousands of acres were burned over in Anne Arundel, Wicomico, and St. Mary counties.

Officials expressed fear for the safety of more than a hundred Negro families living in cabins deep in the woods.

Lakewood, N. J., firefighters turned back the flames with desperate drenching, backfiring, and dynamiting. Ambulances poured into the city from Trenton, Atlantic City, Asbury Park, and several other New Jersey cities. The naval air station at Lakehurst sent men to fight the Lakewood fire, which started only four miles from the station but burned away from it. Churches were thrown open for use as medical stations.

Lakewood residents formed bucket brigades and salvage squads. They battled flames with garden hose until escape was all but cut off.

Be Generous, Pope Pius Admonishes War Victors

ROME, April 20.—A plea for humility and charity was made by Pope Pius XII. this morning in a speech in which he praised those who fought in defense of their country against superior forces. He also asked that the innocent be spared, and that the victors be generous with the vanquished. The pope addressed about 1,000 students and graduates of Catholic universities, as well as members of the Italian Catholic legion.

COAL STRIKE SPREADS IN BRITAIN; DISPUTE ARISES OVER PAY CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21, Monday.—A wage dispute at a Durham colliery where 1,800 men and boys have been on strike since Friday took a serious turn today after the local mine workers' federation board decided to call out workmen employed at other collieries in the group. About 3,000 miners struck at midnight and others may be affected.

The dispute arose apparently over wages paid to 11 cutter men employed at the Durham colliery. When they received their pay checks they discovered, it was stated, that they were paid only 4 shillings 11 pence [about $1] a shift and the "rest of the colliery workmen then decided to cease work in sympathy."

Advised by the Durham Miners' association to return to work pending negotiations for settlement of the dispute with the colliery's management, the miners refused to do so.

6 Get in Fight at Party; Hurt in 30 Foot Fall

Six guests at a wedding anniversary party were injured yesterday when they pushed thru a stairway railing during a brawl and fell 30 feet to the ground. The fight and accident occurred at 4340 Kenmore avenue.

The party had been held in the third floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. David Oshrain, who were observing their eighth wedding anniversary. Lieut. William Drury of the Town Hall station said the trouble started when Albert Turner, 32 years old, a guest, who lives below the Oshrains, awakened Anthony Cauley, 38, of 929 Belle Plaine avenue, who had dozed off in the Oshrain apartment.

Fight Starts on Stairway.

Lieut. Drury said Cauley resented being disturbed and rebuked Turner. Turner called to his wife, Peggie, 32, and the two left the Oshrain apartment to go to their own.

The Turners were half way down the rear stairway between the third and fourth floors when Cauley, followed by his wife, ran after them.

In another moment Cauley and Turner were fighting on the stairway, Lieut. Drury said. Mrs. Cauley and Mrs. Turner tried to separate them.

Railing Suddenly Gives Way.

Two other guests, Mrs. Catherine Kearney, 32, and James Wesley, 50, both of 1047 Buena avenue, also ran to the stairway and tried to help the two wives pry their husbands apart.

The six were pressing against the stairway railing and suddenly it gave way. All six lost their balance and tumbled screaming to the ground. They fell about two stories and landed in a heap.

Police took the victims to American hospital. Wesley suffered a skull fracture and his condition was regarded as serious last night. The others suffered less severe injuries.

SPANISH PRESS HINTS AT DRASTIC DECISION ON WAY

MADRID, Spain, April 20.—The press campaign to prepare the Spanish people for some drastic action took on a more menacing tone today than at any time since Generalissimo Francisco Franco's interview with Adolf Hitler last fall.

Arriba, organ of the Falangist party's "activist" group, urged the imperative need for complete unity of the Spanish people, declaring that anybody who held different views was a traitor and a coward.

BRITISH TIGHTEN LINES; SITUATION CALLED SERIOUS

English Racing for Ports, Says Berlin.

ATHENS, Greece, April 20 (AP).—The British fell back from Mount Olympus to a new and shorter defense line today in a retreat covered by determined rearguard fighting which took a terrific toll of fiercely charging German blitzmen.

The Greeks to the west also were reported falling back. Informed British military sources declared that the situation was "serious," but that the allied forces were falling back in orderly fashion and maintaining an unbroken line in the face of intense German pressure.

The Greek high command said that the "enemy at no point broke thru our line, which was adopted according to plan."

The Greek press ministry declared that "all violent efforts by the enemy to force a decisive and immediate issue have failed." The Germans "attempted at all costs to force passes" in the Kalabaka area but they "failed and paid dearly for the failure in casualties."

British Abandon Olympus.

Mount Olympus, where the British have told of piling up German dead with murderous fire down its shell blackened slopes, was abandoned by the British and imperial troops before it was taken by the Germans.

The Germans continued to hurl masses of troops into battle regardless of cost.

As for the action in Albania, the Greeks repelled two Italian attacks with heavy losses and "chased the enemy beyond his original positions."

The RAF is playing a major rôle in the battle. Fighter patrols yesterday intercepted German bombers escorted by Nazi fighters when they attempted attacks on allied forces and shot down, without a single loss, 10 German planes.

German dive bomber raids today on Piraeus, port of Athens, and the Elevsis and Megara regions caused damage and casualties but cost the Germans five bombers. Other sections of Greece also were attacked by Italian and German raiders.

'HOT CHASE,' SAY NAZIS

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—The war in Greece was described in German dispatches tonight as a hot chase across the plains of Thessaly, south of Larissa, with the British and Greeks in full retreat.

In places, according to military reports, the Greek army was falling to pieces while the British were trying in greatest haste to reach the ports of Volos and Khalkis.

The German high command announced earlier that the Nazi forces had stormed thru the British mountain defenses to Trikkala on the Thessalonian plains.

Trikkala is an important railway center 45 miles southwest of Mount Olympus. Its capture represented an advance of about 100 miles of tough going thru the mountains of northern Greece from Jugo-Slavia, and placed the Nazis within 150 miles of Athens.

Broad Sweep to Plains.

Furthermore, the Germans opened to their panzer divisions a broad sweep of the Thessalonian plains extending about 50 miles southwest to the Orios Othrys mountain range.

A DNB, German official news agency, dispatch said the British withdrawing from Larissa were trying to move columns of soldiers and streams of motorized equipment three abreast on the road to Lamia, a rail and highway junction 50 miles to the south and on the lower side of the Orios Othrys range.

Terrific traffic jams resulted, giving German dive bombers and machine-gunning pursuit planes easy targets.

NAVY IS WAITING F. D. R. SIGNAL TO START CONVOYS

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The navy department, it was learned today, has completed plans for convoying arms cargoes to England and only awaits the signal from President Roosevelt to dispatch cruisers and destroyers on such duty.

It develops, however, that our warships are inadequately equipped with antiaircraft guns and would be particularly handicapped in attempting to cope with the German bombing planes infesting the Atlantic steamship lanes.

The shortage of antiaircraft artillery is such, in fact, that not more than half the eastern seaboard cities could be given any protection whatsoever from the air raids that President Roosevelt says may be expected if Germany should conquer Britain. The lack of mobile antiaircraft guns also cripples our field armies.

Dive Bomber Threat.

As matters now stand the new destroyers employed for convoying would be ill equipped for coping with dive bombers and the old destroyers would be inadequately armed against all types of aircraft. German airplanes would be able to knock off such inadequately armed ships with comparative ease.

Whether the President will order the navy into convoy service is the burning question in congress and in the country at large. When the British aid bill was pending he sought to allay opposition to the measure by disavowing any intention of convoying arms cargoes. He said that convoying means shooting and shooting means war and he was going to keep the country out of a shooting war. After the passage of the bill, however, he proclaimed that England and her allies would get our ships and planes and arms without fail, the implication of which was delivery guaranteed by convoy, if necessary.

British Are Busy.

The British government is pressing the President more and more insistently to employ American warships to guard shipments of arms and food to England from Germah submarines and aircraft. British officials say that while they probably will be compelled to evacuate Greece, they have no doubt of their ability to hold Egypt and regain Northern Africa and control of the western Mediterranean. They are fearful only of the outcome of the battle of the Atlantic.

Sea power will win the war in the end, say the British—that is, American and British sea power combined. But to win the war the battle of the Atlantic must be won and for that, the British say, the combined Anglo-American sea power will be required.

At the moment the President is hesitating in the face of evidence that American public opinion is more strongly opposed than ever to the convoying of arms cargoes, which is almost universally regarded as a sure way of getting into a shooting war. Public sentiment against involvement in the war appears to have stiffened since British reverses in the Mediterranean have suggested that Germany cannot be beaten save in a long war in which not only the American navy but a vast American army would be sent to fight in Europe.

Opposition Shows Increase.

Numerous senators and congressmen have said of late that they are hearing from an increasing number of constituents opposed to the Roosevelt policy of all-out aid for Britain. Democratic leaders in congress, while confident of enough votes to beat the Tobey resolution forbidding use of

ROARING WINDS ROUT CHICAGO'S TOUCH OF SUMMER WEATHER

High winds roaring out of the southwest put an end yesterday to Chicago's summerlike weather. The winds reached a velocity of 43 miles an hour and dropped the temperature to the 40's. Light frost was expected this morning in the suburbs. Storm warnings were posted on the Great Lakes.

Forecaster A. J. Knarr promised fair weather today, with sunny skies prevailing for the next 36 hours. He said today's high reading should be about 50.

The winds ripped off a section of the roof at the United Shipping company at 837 West 31st street, part of it landing on an automobile owned by Stanley Wade, 3942 North Paulina street. Two store windows were blown out in Evanston and scaffolding was torn loose from a building at Ohio and Rush streets.

U.S. AND OTTAWA MERGE OUTPUT TO HELP BRITAIN

F.D.R. and Premier Announce Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 20.—President Roosevelt and W. L. Mackenzie King, Canada's war time prime minister, in a joint statement tonight, revealed that their nations would coordinate their production programs to provide local and hemispheric defense and give all-out aid to Great Britain and her allies.

W. L. Mackenzie King.

The two said that there would be a general trading of important resources between the two nations to effect that program. The United States will buy from Canada up to 300 million dollars' worth of aluminum, munitions, and other strategic materials.

Under the agreement announced by President Roosevelt and the prime minister, Great Britain will ask war materials under the lease-lend act, receive them, and then forward them to Canada to be made into armament for Britain. The British will not pay for these articles; neither will Canada.

Merge Nations' Economies.

So far as the war effort is concerned, it is believed the arrangement will provide a practical merging of the economies of the two nations.

Behind the agreement, it is said, is an effort by President Roosevelt to aid Canada meet difficulties created by the lease-lend program and by the existence of the neutrality act, which bars loans to belligerents.

Canada has been selling war supplies, wheat, and other agricultural products to Britain for sterling. The fact that the United States at Roosevelt's behest adopted a policy of leasing or lending such products to Britain without payment has threatened the very basework of Canadian economy, it was said. The United States payment of $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 for Canadian machine tools and other supplies will ease a growing dollar shortage in Canada. So, too, will the agreement that this country will ship free of charge parts for tanks, guns, ships, and other war sinews the dominion is producing for Britain.

Hint U. S. Troop Movement.

William D. Hassett, Presidential secretary, refused to comment upon reports that Canada had proposed that the United States send troops to Canada to replace, for hemisphere defense purposes, additional troops that Canada plans to send to battlefronts abroad.

Harry L. Hopkins, head of the British aid program, and Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, sat in on the conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Mackenzie King. Hopkins accompanied the President back to Washington, D. C., after the meeting. Mackenzie King left for Canada.

Text of Joint Statement.

The text of the joint statement issued by Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King follows:

"Among other important matters, the President and the prime minister discussed measures by which the most prompt and effective utilization might be made of the productive facilities of North America for the purposes both of local and hemisphere defense and of the assistance which, in addition to their own programs, both Canada and the United States are rendering to Great Britain and the other democracies.

"It was agreed as a general principle that in mobilizing the resources of this continent each country should provide the other with the defense articles which it is best able to produce, and, above all, produce quickly, and that production programs should be coördinated to this end.

Must Purchase in U. S.

"While Canada has expanded its productive capacity manyfold since the beginning of the war, there are still numerous defense articles which it must obtain in the United States, and purchases of this character by Canada will be even greater in the coming year than in the past.

"On the other hand, there is existing and potential capacity in Canada for the speedy production of certain kinds of munitions, strategic materials, aluminum and ships, which are urgently required by the United States, for its own purposes.

"While exact estimates cannot yet be made, it is hoped that during the next 12 months Canada can supply the United States with between 200 million and 300 million dollars worth of such defense articles. This sum is a small fraction of the total defense program of the United States, but many of the articles to be provided are of vital importance.

Materially Assist Canada.

"In addition, it is of great importance to the economic and financial relations between the two countries that payments by the United States for these supplies will materially assist Canada in meeting part of the cost of Canadian defense purchases in the United States.

"Insofar as Canada's defense purchases in the United States consist of component parts to be used in equipment and munitions which Canada is producing for Great Britain, it was also agreed that Great Britain will obtain these parts under the lease-lend act and forward them to Canada for inclusion in the finished article.

"The technical and financial details will be worked out as soon as possible in accordance with general principles which have been agreed upon between the President and the prime minister."

AGENTS OF OPM WILL ACT TODAY TO AVERT STRIKE

Consultants of the Office of Production Management will confer today with union and company officials in an attempt to avert a strike scheduled for tonight at the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company, 6650 South Cicero avenue, makers of telephone switchboards and related equipment.

It was said that a strike of the 1,100 workers would interfere with national preparedness production. The unions, local 17 of the Electrical Workers' union and district lodge 8 of the Machinists' union, both AFL affiliates, have been negotiating with the company for a year. A 14 week strike last summer failed to settle their differences. The members seek a 20 per cent wage increase, a closed shop, and vacations with pay and assert an election a year ago gave them collective bargaining rights.

OPM representatives who will attempt to settle the controversy are C. W. Berquist, OPM business consultant and public relations official of Western Electric company, and Joseph Keenan, OPM labor consultant and secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

THREE ESCAPED NAZIS REPORTED DEAD IN CANADA

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., April 20 (AP).—Three of 28 escaped German war prisoners were reported dead tonight as searching parties pushed thru unsettled countryside in snow-swept northwest Ontario in pursuit of nine others still at large. Because the snowstorm made the search difficult and communications in the territory are poor, details were not available immediately.

It was announced officially at Ottawa earlier tonight that 16 of the escaped prisoners, all believed to be noncommissioned members of the Nazi air force, were in custody.

Reports from Schrieber, Ont., 130 miles east of here, said five of the fugitives were captured there after being shot and seriously wounded. Another Nazi, one of 11 captured yesterday, also was reported to have been shot.

FOOD PLAN DOESN'T MEAN OPPOSITION TO BRITISH, SAYS HOOVER

New York, April 20 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover declared tonight his proposal to relieve the suffering in some German occupied countries "does not diminish our sympathies and hopes for the British cause one atom."

"It gives us more right to speak for the cause of these ideals and of these little nations," he said in a broadcast of the National Student Committee on Food for the Small Democracies over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Hoover said that the United States had just made "the greatest gift ever made in the history of mankind from one nation to another in aid of the British cause." He asserted that the plight of Europe's conquered peoples "is due solely to their supreme sacrifice on the altar of democracy." All plans for feeding them, Hoover added, insist that the peoples must be protected from German requisitions of the food. "We have asked that a practical and sensible experiment should be tried," he continued. "If that experiment fails, we shall have done our best as a nation."

S. AFRICANS SAY U. S. ASKS HELP IN BUILDING BASES

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, April 20 (AP).—The South African government has asked contractors thru the Associated Chambers of Commerce to undertake work on new naval and air bases the United States is to establish in the Atlantic. The invitation, emanating from the United States war department, is being circulated thruout the British empire. It is believed here that South African raw materials may find a place in the work.

[In Washington, D. C., the war department said there must be some error in the Cape Town report. It stated this country has no bases in that vicinity and wants none. No such contracts have been let to Cape Town concerns, according to the department. The navy department said there is no American base contemplated nearer the Cape of Good Hope than British Guiana. The department said all contracts for base construction had been let to American concerns. Those concerns have sublet certain work to local concerns.]

GIVE 'NO CONVOY' PLEDGE, COLLEGE MEN URGE F. D. R.

New York, April 20 [Special].—A telegram to President Roosevelt, urging him to reassure the nation that the United States will not convoy British ships without specific authorization by congress, was made public today by College Men for Defense First.

Richard A. Moore, chairman of the executive committee of the organization, said his group hoped the President would supplement the denial of intention to convoy made by Senator Barkley [D., Ky.] in response to fears expressed last week in congressional debate by Senator Tobey [D., N. H.], nection with the national election of that year. There were more votes in Chicago on daylight time than in all Cook county on a proposed revision of the state banking law.

ALDERMEN ACT TODAY ON MORE FALL DAYLIGHT

Committee Will Vote After Hearing.

Interest Is Indicated.

Hundreds of telephone calls and letters which council members have received in the last few days indicate that the interest is just as widespread today, according to officials. Council leaders reported that the plan to extend daylight saving and hold a referendum is receiving enthusiastic indorsement from civic leaders and others thruout the city.

On Saturday, Ald. Duffy charged that a vociferous pressure campaign is being waged by "self-seeking" minority groups to block adoption of the new extension. The groups are concerned chiefly, he asserted, with possibilities that the change will cost them money in the form of business profits.

"This is a measure which affects the health and welfare of children and working people who are tied up all day in offices and factories," he said. "Daylight saving in October will provide added recreational opportunities for everyone. And the streets will be safer for the children during the play hours and for the workers rushing home in the evenings.

No "Going to School in Dark."

United States weather bureau records show the fallacy of charges that school children would have to start for their morning classes in the dark, the alderman continued.

Besides allowing more time for outside activities, reducing traffic accidents, and promoting health, authorities agree that daylight saving reduces crime, cuts electric light bills, speeds industrial production, reduces industrial accidents, and prevents eye strain among workers and school children.

Numerous civic leaders, recreational authorities, and sportsmen have announced their intention to appear at today's hearing to support the daylight saving extension.

Among those expected to appear are Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university; Maynard G. Fessenden, president of the Chicago District Golf association; Joe Triner, former president of the United States Soccer association; Jack Elder, athletic director of the Catholic Youth organization; Elliott Hasan, football coach at Hyde Park high school, and Miss Renette Yank, Illinois state women's archery champion and president of the Chicago Archery club.

Maj. John L. Griffith, director of athletics for the Big Ten, has written a letter of indorsement to Ald. Duffy.

The measure also has been indorsed by numerous labor organizations, including the executive board of the Web Pressmen's union, local 7, and locals of the Photo Engravers and Printing Press unions. The Chicago Federation of Labor is taking no stand, according to its president, John Fitzpatrick.

EYE STRAIN DESCRIBED AS NEW BOTTLENECK IN ARMS PRODUCTION

America's preparedness program faces a new bottleneck—the slowing of production as a result of workers' eye strain—the Illinois State Society of Optometrists was told yesterday as it opened its 33d annual convention in the Morrison hotel.

Dr. Duncan.

Unless scientific visual safeguards are worked out, the nation's vast industrial program can not attain maximum production, asserted Dr. C. Wallace Duncan of Rockford, president of the society.

"Eyes break down when subjected to tasks beyond normal capacity," he said.

The convention, held in conjunction with the annual Great Lakes Optometric Educational congress, will continue thru Thursday.

NYE COUNSELS: DEFEND—AND GET RID OF HYSTERIA

Prof. Schuman Demands All-Out Aid—Even War.

Conflicting three point programs to save democracy in the United States were outlined yesterday by Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] and Prof. Frederick Schuman of Williams college, in a University of Chicago round table radio broadcast.

If Democratic institutions are to survive, Senator Nye asserted, the United States must:

1. Mind its own business.
2. Build an impregnable defense.
3. Control its hates and fears and rid itself of hysteria.

"There is no cause in the European struggle which merits the shedding of a single drop of American blood," Senator Nye declared. "Going into war implies a suicide for the United States.

Opposed to Convoys.

"The American people are absolutely not willing even to convoy ships to Britain. No empire can live forever, and if the end of the British empire comes now, we have less to fear from attack from abroad than from wasting ouselves in a war thousands of miles from home."

Prof. Schuman called prevention of a British defeat "absolutely indispensible for the security and even for the independence of the United States."

Schuman's Three Points.

He presented his three point program to save democracy and said, "If it means all-out, open shooting war, then I'm for it." The United States, he said, must:

1. Use American military vessels to convoy the ships to Europe and carry this as far as necessary to insure the defeat of Germany.
2. Pool our merchant shipping with British shipping.
3. Inform Tokio that if there is any stab in the back at Singapore or in the East Indies, the United States will fight.

Prof. Schuman admitted that "two-thirds" of the American people are opposed to convoying war supplies to Britain, but added: "If they are irrevocably committed to that position, then we are lost."

Dr. Dafoe Is 'Miserable but Safe' After Operation

TORONTO, Ont., April 20 (AP).—Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, Dionne quintuplets' physician, was reported "pretty miserable but safe" tonight after a "very extensive but serious" operation last week. His younger brother, Dr. William Dafoe, of Toronto, said the Callander physician is "safe, I'm sure of that now, unless something unforeseen turns up." He declined to disclose the nature of the operation.

75,000 GREET GEN. SIKORSKI, POLISH LEADER

Vast Throng Braves Rain and Wind for Rally.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A vast throng of persons of Polish birth or ancestry, estimated at nearly 75,000, braved yesterday afternoon's blustery wind and rain to greet Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski at a civic reception in Soldiers' field. The Polish hero, who is commander of Polish forces in England and premier of the Polish government in exile, told the throng that the allies will win the war.

On entering the field, Gen. Sikorski was greeted by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commanding general of the 6th corps area, United States army, and Rear Admiral John Downes, commander of the 9th naval district, Great Lakes, and their aides, and by officials of city and state.

5,000 March in Review.

At 2 o'clock, while the throngs were still pouring into the wind-swept field, Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer of the Chicago park district, said that at least 60,000 persons were already in their seats. More than 5,000 made up the organizations which marched in review before the visiting premier.

Consul General Lewis Bernays of England was in the speakers' stand, and Gen. Sikorski was introduced to the throng by Jan Ciechanowski, Polish ambassador to the United States. Dr. Francis X. Swietlik, dean of law at Marquette university, Milwaukee, and president of the Polish American council, who was in charge of the reception, presided.

Gen. Sikorski spoke briefly in Polish, urging increased patriotism toward America.

"I bring you greetings from the Polish government and its army, and from the suffering Polish nation," he said. "Long live Poland, the democratic nation! I want you Americans to remain loyal citizens of the United States. Today the unity of the Polish people is fighting and will fight until the very last.

Paderewski's Message Read.

"The army is fighting on land, sea, and air, and even right now guerrilla warfare is going on in Poland. The war today is not for Poland or for Czecho-Slovakia alone but for Christian civilization."

A message from Ignace Jan Paderewski, at Palm Beach, Fla., was read by Selwin Strakacz, secretary to the former Polish premier and renowned pianist. The message said:

"Poland, General, stands with you at your command. These millions of brotherly hearts which beat today on the free American soil are for you. General, lead your people to victory and glory, to freedom and greatness, and to justice. Poland will love all her devoted sons. May God bless you."

Special trains brought many thousands to the reception from Milwaukee and northern Indiana cities.

Gen. Sikorski attended services yesterday morning at St. John Cantius church, Chicago avenue and Carpenter street. A banquet in his honor was held last night in the Palmer House.

BRITISH PRAYING U. S. SHUNS WAR, WHEELER AVERS

Says They Feel Peace Will Come Sooner.

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Butte, Mont., April 20.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, asserted today in his home town that the common people of England are praying for the United States to stay out of the European war. He said that a prominent Englishman recently reported this hope of the British poor and middle class.

"He and his family told me the people feel that if the United States will stay at home peace will come more quickly," said Senator Wheeler. "This way, they believe, the annihilation of England could be halted, and an end put to the deaths, terror, and insanity that have come with the German bombings.

Reports Thousands Protest.

"This Englishman told me that 250,000 protesting Englishmen have been lodged in jails. He said that guards have been placed in factories to keep grumbling workmen making munitions. I cannot reveal the identity of the Englishman because it would bring down upon him the wrath of his homeland. He came from England to buy a ranch in Canada."

The copper miners and the townspeople of Butte accorded Wheeler a welcome equal to the other tumultuous greetings given him on his country-wide campaign to keep America out of war. They jammed each available inch of space in the Fox theater and cheered an indorsement of his plea for peace.

Hundreds Turned Away.

After 3,000 had crammed themselves into the theater, which has a capacity of 1,573, police closed the doors and turned other hundreds away.

The crowd stood in the aisles, on the stage, and overflowed into the lobby. The meeting upheld the prediction of Ed Mason, former head of Butte Miners No. 1, CIO.

Before the meeting Mason said that his organization is 90 per cent with Wheeler in his fight to keep this country out of war. The miners' union had opposed the Montana senator when he fought the administration effort to pack the Supreme court.

Want No Part of War.

"We have 7,000 members," said Mason, "and most of them want no part of this war. We have gone along with President Roosevelt on most of his domestic policies but, in this case, if the President is wrong, we think that we should say so and halt the drift toward foreign battlefields."

If the United States is to remain a democracy, Senator Wheeler warned his audience, economic opportunity must be furnished for the plain people to maintain themselves and their families in decency.

"This is a tremendous task, a problem that we have not solved in eight years of experimentation," he continued. "This task will face us amplified a thousand times when peace finally comes to a war torn world. Its solution will tax democratic processes.

Sees War Ruin Nation.

"If we should enter this bloody conflict we would become at that moment a regimented nation. War would indeed destroy the America we know and love.

Senator Wheeler pleaded with his listeners to write the President and demand that there be no convoys and no American boys plowed under African, European, or Asiatic soil.

A significant gathering in Butte was a quiet dinner party given for Wheeler. Here representatives of capital and labor and political enemies were brought together by their common interest in the campaign to stay out of war.

Visit Air Base

Palm Beach, Fla., April 20 (AP).—The duke and duchess of Windsor today visited the partly completed Eighth Pursuit air base at Morrison field, West Palm Beach, where 2,500 men will be stationed.

The duke also held a long conference with his personal financial adviser, Sir Edward Peacock, member of the British purchasing commission and a governor of the bank of England.

Social activities of the duke and duchess today included a cocktail party given by Capt. Alistair Mackintosh, personal friend of the duke, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, and a dinner at the home of Herbert Pulitzer of New York.

The duke and duchess have postponed until Tuesday their return to the Bahama Islands, of which he is governor. They will make the trip in the houseboat Viator, owned by Mrs. Maitland Alexander of Pittsburgh, if the weather is good.

REPEAL WAR? IT CANNOT BE DONE, TOBEY WARNS U. S.

New York, April 20 [Special].—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] warned an audience of 500 persons here today to fight any attempt to convoy supplies for Britain with American ships because that plan would lead this country into war and a "degenerate form of communist government."

Senator Tobey spoke at an America First rally. He urged the audience to remember "that war cannot be repealed, bankruptcy cannot be repealed, and the dead cannot be returned to their homes. After the war there will be nothing left but poverty and ruin."

"The time has come," he continued, "to stop the plan of convoys in its tracks. If we withhold our protests until after the convoys have been used and vessels with American seamen sunk, whether by mines or torpedoes, it will be too late."

Hitler Names Brown Shirt Leader Envoy to Croatia

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—Adolf Hitler today appointed Siegfried Kasche, 37 year old Brown Shirt leader, Germany's first minister to Zagreb, capital of the newly proclaimed independent Croatia. Kasche was recommended for the job by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

FLOOD OF MAIL ASKS APPROVAL OF CONVOY BAN

America First Members Write to Senators.

Thousands of letters, rivaling in volume those sent to Washington, D. C., during debate on the lend-lease bill, are pouring into the capital requesting passage of the Tobey anticonvoy resolution, R. Douglas Stuart Jr., national director of the America First committee, said yesterday.

Senator Tobey.

The resolution, introduced by Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.], would prohibit use of United States warships and men to convoy war supplies to belligerent nations.

Letters to Senators Urged.

America First chapters thruout the nation are urging persons who want to keep the United States out of war to write to members of the senate foreign relations committee in an effort to force the bill out of the committee and onto the senate floor. The committee is scheduled to act on the resolution April 30.

Stuart said Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and other anti-interventionist leaders now touring the country to warn the people of the war peril are concentrating their efforts on the anticonvoy resolution. Senator Wheeler will address an anti-war rally in Chicago at 3:30 p. m. next Sunday in the Chicago Arena, 400 East Erie street.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who drew 14,000 persons to the Arena last week, will address another America First massmeeting in St. Louis, Mo., May 3, Stuart announced. Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] will speak at the same meeting.

Policy of Guile Charged.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, University of Chicago professor, told a rally sponsored by the Hyde Park chapter of the America First committee yesterday that the present foreign policy of the United States was adopted thru guile and propaganda before the people had a chance to make their choice.

"A foreign policy of our country, radically departing from the Monroe Doctrine, should not be adopted in a period of general fear and hysteria," he said. "It should be placed before all the people, with all the cards on the table, face up, for their judgment when men's minds are calm."

The rally was held in Graham Taylor hall, 5757 University avenue.

Gary Aviator Is Killed in Ohio Plane Crash

SEE 'LAST STAND' IN GREECE BEHIND A WATER BARRIER

Two Gulfs Might Give the Germans Trouble.

A last stand by the British and Greeks on the Morean peninsula just south of the mainland of Greece, was advanced as a possibility by students of military science yesterday.

The defense, if made, would be behind what probably might be called the Corinthian line—in the main a stretch of water 100 miles long extending northwest and southwest between Corinth on the lower end, and Achaia on the upper end.

Morea, virtually an island about 160 miles long and 100 miles wide, is connected with northern Greece by the important Isthmus of Corinth. It is separted—and the separation is vital for defense—by the Gulf of Corinth and the Gulf of Patras which join at a point less than four miles wide.

A Barrier to Invader.

The Gulf of Corinth is 75 miles long and has an average breadth of 15 miles. The Gulf of Patras is 22 miles long and at the most 13 miles wide. It amounts to the virtual western extension of the Gulf of Corinth, and thus the two gulfs form an unbroken continuity of water which, while narrow, can yet be considered a barrier.

At the southeastern extremity are Corinth and the Isthmus of Corinth. This area has figured in warfare from before the Christian era to modern times. It has been overrun by Romans, Goths, Normans, Turks and others, indicating that in itself it is not impregnable. The isthmus connects Morea with northern Greece. It is 20 miles long and four to eight miles wide.

But here again is another important defense potential. A canal bisects the isthmus. The canal is approximately four miles long, 26 feet deep, and 70 feet wide. It extends the water defense line by its own length.

Abandonment of Athens.

If the British and Greeks decide to make a stand behind Corinth on Morea they would necessarily have to abandon Athens. But to fight on Morea they would require considerable manpower. The goal would be to place the main body of the defense on the peninsula. To do this a sturdy rearguard action would be necessary to permit the main body to disengage itself from battle. At least 12 hours of freedom of movement is seen as essential.

The British-Greek forces might try to cross the Corinthian isthmus to Morea, or depending upon pressure, might attempt to cross the Gulfs of Corinth and Patras at their narrowest confluence.

Also, the left flank might try to cross from Missolonghi, on the Greek mainland, to Morea at the extreme northwest end of the Gulf of Patras. Missolonghi was the great stronghold of the Greeks in their war for independence a century ago.

Line of Water Defense.

In any event, if the allied armies were to reach Morea in force, they would have between them and the Germans a line of water which might prove a formidable defensive barrier.

The Germans probably would counter with heavy air attacks. Their Stukas and their parachute troops would not find the Corinthian line insurmountable. However, their mechanized units would encounter difficulties. Heaviest fighting probably would be at either end of the line—the Isthmus of Corinth and canal on the southeast, or Achaia on the northwest.

If the British and Greeks were forced to retreat from Morea they would find numerous suitable beaches on the southern coast, permitting evacuation with the aid of British sea power.

HITLER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY AT FRONT; GETS VICTORY PLEDGE

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—Adolf Hitler celebrated his 52d birthday today in a festooned railway dining car, surrounded by hils military leaders, somewhere on the Balkan front.

His special train was parked on a siding in a valley, broadcasters said, with German antiaircraft units visible on nearby mountain tops.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, in a broadcast from the train, promised Hitler "the greatest of all victories."

In Berlin, the United States embassy displayed its national colors in keeping with international courtesy, and Leland Morris, United States chargé d'affaires, entered his name at the reichschancellery in the diplomats' book of birthday greetings to the Fuehrer.

NEGRO RESERVE MILITIA ENTERS STATE SERVICE

The 8th battalion of infantry, Illinois Reserve militia—composed entirely of Negroes — was mustered into state service yesterday at the 8th regiment armory, 3517 Giles avenue. The 266 men and 17 officers will be commanded by Col. William J. Warfield.

Lieut. Col. William E. Swanson of the state militia staff and First Lieut. Fred W. Jacobi of the Illinois National Guard were mustering officers.

An all-Negro regiment eventually will be formed as new recruits enlist, Col. Warfield said. Organization of a second battalion will begin immediately.

RAPS 'ARMCHAIR CRITIC' OF BRITISH EFFORT IN GREECE

Admiralty Chief Declares No Apology Needed.

LONDON, April 20 (AP).—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, lashed out at "armchair critics" of Britain's decision to send troops to Greece today. He declared to his London audience that Italian transport tonnage destroyed by the navy runs into "six figures."

"There are some who can be wise after events and who criticize strategy and military dispositions," he said. "I ask them to realize the vast change in the situation since last June when France collapsed and the Assassin Mussolini entered into the war thinking he was going to get something cheap.

"There were many people then who doubted our ability to last many weeks."

No Need to Apologize.

Alexander enumerated Britain's African victories and said:

"It seems wrong in the circumstances for an armchair critic to tell us we ought not to have risked our position in Libya to go to the aid of Greece. I do not think the government has any need to apologize for its decision."

He said Britain's burden in the battle of the Atlantic was "grievous and heavy" but predicted an increasing toll of German submarines and long range planes.

"The amazing thing," he said, "is that the navy has kept the lifeline open."

The first lord said one of Germany's best submarine commanders, Schepke, was dead and that Commander Otto Kretschmer, credited last December with having sunk more than 250,000 tons of shipping, was a British prisoner.

"Idolized" in Germany.

Kretschmer, Alexander continued, was "idolized in Germany as the wolf of the Atlantic."

At Sittingbourne, in Kent, Solicitor General Sir William Jowitt told a meeting that Britain "could not lose the war in Greece, at the Suez canal, or in the oilfields of Mosul," but could lose if "Britain is successfully invaded or starved out."

Adolf Hitler is expending about twice the quantity of oil he is getting and "as to machines, once the American supply becomes effective, if it gets here, will be conclusive," he said.

KING TAKES OVER PREMIER'S POST IN GREEK CABINET

Navy Man Is Named Second in Command.

ATHENS, Greece, April 20 (AP).—Greece today finally succeeded in forming a streamlined cabinet with King George II. personally taking the premier's post and a veteran naval career man, Admiral Alexander Sakellariou, becoming vice premier and minister of marine. The cabinet was cut from 21 ministers to 10 after several abortive efforts of premier designates to form a government.

The new cabinet went to work immediately, holding its first meeting as soon as oaths had been taken before the king, who then called upon all Greeks to defend their nation "to the very end."

Urged to Remain United.

In a broadcast message the king appealed "to the Greek people, to all who are fighting at the front, as well as to all who are contributing to the war efforts behind the lines, to remain united and steadfast, to carry on the fight for the country's honor and independence."

The monarch indicated he would continue in his twin capacity of king-premier only temporarily. The important foreign affairs and finance posts in the new cabinet were given to Emmanuel Tsouderos, a former governor of the Bank of Greece and finance minister in 1924. He also was made minister of national economy, provisionally.

Three holdovers from the cabinet of Premier Alexandros Korizis, who committed suicide Friday, were given additional duties.

Makeup of Cabinet.

Costas Maniadakis, already minister of home security, also became minister of the interior; Theologos Nicoloudis combined the press post with public welfare, and Labor Minister Aristides Demetratos took on the additional duties of the agriculture and coöperatives ministries. Other members of the cabinet:

War and markets, Gen. Panayotis Panagakos; air, Gen. P. Nicolaides; communications and provisionally railways, Gen. G. Kordzas; education and provisionally justice, P. Sekeris; mercantile marine, Stavros Theophanides.

IOWA MISSIONARY FREED FROM ITALIAN PRISON IN ETHIOPIA

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopa, April 15 [delayed] (AP).—An American missionary was free today after spending months behind bars as a prisoner of the Italians.

He is gray haired Douglas Henry of Goldfield, Ia., representative of the United Presbyterians, who was released by the British.

Henry was arrested when Italy went to war, and his mission hospital and school were closed. He was freed three weeks later but the Italians threw him back in jail on Aug. 31 after finding in his house what he described as obsolete parts of a radio receiver.

He said the Italians accused him of having used the parts to send the British information leading to a raid on Addis Ababa airdrome.

Thousands praise NEW DUPONT HOUSE PAINT

THOUSANDS acclaim the new Du Pont House Paint. It not only starts whiter . . . it stays white longer because it's actually self-cleaning! It forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot, or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it and exposing a fresh white surface. Usually this self-cleaning process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints, and it saves you money because it needs fewer repaintings. Ask your painting contractor to use Du Pont House Paint!

There's a Du Pont dealer near you. For his name, see your classified Telephone Directory, or phone Brunswick 8900, Du Pont Co., 2100 Elston Ave.

BRITISH REPULSE ATTACK BY NAZI TANKS AT TOBRUK

Forces at Sollum Inflict Damage on Germans.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 20 (AP).—The Germans still are vainly trying to take the fortified Libyan city of Tobruk from its British defenders, a general headquarters communique said today, and in the latest assault lost four out of a dozen tanks which penetrated the outer defenses. The other eight tanks hastily retreated.

[The German high command said Nazi combat planes dropped heavy caliber bombs on the port facilities of Tobruk and on other military objectives in the area on Friday night and again Saturday and reported there were many direct hits followed by great fires and heavy explosions."]

Fighting still went on in the area of Sollum, the little post just within the Egyptian frontier. The British said mobile columns and patrols "again caused the enemy serious losses and a number of prisoners has been taken."

[The Germans announced the capture of Sollum last Monday. Their communique yesterday said British attacks on the town were "vain" despite support from the navy and air force.]

Extensive British Raids.

The royal air force middle east command reported extensive British air raids in eastern Libya and Tripolitania.

"Motor transport vehicles were destroyed in numerous localities, including Acroma, El Adem, Bardia, and Menastir by bomb and machine gun attacks," a communique said. Axis planes were bombed and damaged at Derna airdrome and an attack was made on the Berka airdrome.

British airmen raided Bengazi and Tripoli harbors on Friday night and started fires on moles and quays.

A German bomber was shot down over Tobruk and several others damaged in aerial combat.

[Tobruk lies 80 miles within Libya from the Egyptian border and the troops stationed there were encircled from the land side when the axis mechanized forces swept eastward early this month. The Italian high command said they were "trapped." British military officials in London, however, have countered this statement with the observation that the men, if necessary, could be withdrawn by sea, but that as the situation stands their presence in Tobruk constitutes a menace to the axis' lines of communication.]

Make Attack on Malta.

ROME, April 20 (AP).—German air corps squadrons bombed the Micabba airport at Malta and "port works were hit and one large steamer damaged," the high command announced today. It also claimed that an Italian submarine torpedoed "an enemy destroyer" in the eastern Mediterranean.

All of Northern Ireland Is Declared a Defense Area

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 21, Monday, (AP).—Nine districts covering the whole of Northern Ireland have been declared defense areas under an order by the Northern Ireland minister of public security. Belfast is one of the areas. Belfast, capital of warring Northern Ireland and part of the United Kingdom, was hard hit by a 4 hour German raid last Tuesday night.

Weds Actor

CONSTANCE BENNETT.

Yuma, Ariz., April 20 (AP).—Constance Bennett, member of the famous stage and screen family, and Gilbert Roland, film actor, were married today by the Rev. J. C. Bobb, retired Presbyterian pastor.

It was the first marriage for the actor, whose true name is Luis Damaso Alonzo, and the fourth for Miss Bennett. Both are 35. She was born in New York, the daughter of Actor Richard Bennett and the sister of Joan and Barbara Bennett.

In 1921 she eloped with Chester Moorehead, son of a Chicago surgeon. The marriage was annulled two years later.

Miss Bennett and Phillip Plant, wealthy New Yorker, were wed in 1924 and divorced in 1929. She and Henri de la Falaise de la Coudraye, known to Hollywood friends as "Hank," were married in Beverly Hills in 1931. They had been separated several years when she divorced him in Reno last Nov. 14.

HEAR RUMANIA IS THREATENED BY CIVIL WAR

Premier and Guardists in Conflict, Swiss Told.

BERNE, Switzerland, April 20 (AP).—The Hungarian radio today said Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania is in open conflict with the Iron Guard and has caused the execution of several members of the organization because they were carrying arms.

Ion Antonescu.

The Iron Guard's radio was reported to have called Antonescu an enemy of the state as dangerous as former King Carol, who was forced into abdication and exile by the Iron Guard last September.

Break with Axis Seen.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 20.—Hungarian circles said today that German occupied Rumania was dangerously near a new outbreak of civil strife and interpreted a strongly worded patriotic message by the Rumanian premier, Ion Antonescu, to his people as indicating a clean break with the axis.

The Rumanians were reported in a Transylvania dispatch to have halted traffic along the Bulgarian and Hungarian borders, with shots heard day and night by guards shooting any one who attempted to leave the country.

Antonescu, in an Easter message yesterday [today is the orthodox Easter] spoke of Rumanian reverses and loss of territory, but declared "justice and God's love will save us and the Rumanian people will rise again from death."

He also said the Rumanian army was ready to fight and quoted an order of his army commander that "it is the holy duty of the army to wipe out the shameful blot of 1940."

Hungarians Defy Force.

In reply, the Hungarian press said Antonescu could not invalidate by armed force the axis' Vienna arbitration of last year, which handed part of Transylvania to Hungary.

Inflammatory leaflets strongly reminiscent of former Iron Guard writings are being distributed by the thousands in Rumania, Hungarian reports said.

Premier Antonescu, who last week threatened to execute terrorists after uncovering a plot to assassinate him during Easter week, last night published a decree requiring all printers to register with police every page printed by them.

TWO SEIZED IN STOLEN CARS.

Two young men were seized yesterday by Detectives Joseph Kryzinski and Louis Plomgren of the stolen automobile detail, who said they found them in possession of two stolen cars in the vicinity of Green and Madison streets. The prisoners are Arthur Jokinen, 19 years old, of Negaunee, Mich., and Beck Nelson, 17, of Peoria.

ROOSEVELT ASKS PHYSICIANS TO SERVE IN BRITAIN

Uurges 1,000 in America to Volunteer.

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt urged young American doctors tonight to volunteer for service in military and civilian hospitals of "our British friends."

In a statement released here he said that the British Red Cross had appealed thru the American Red Cross for 1,000 young American doctors to help it meet "an acute shortage" of physicians in British hospitals.

"As president of the American Red Cross," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I heartily approve this request."

The President said his views were shared by the surgeons general of the army, navy and public health service and that the doctors whom Britain "so desperately needs can do much to heal the wounds inflicted alike upon civilians and military in this cruel war."

Here Are Details of Plan.

The physicians who volunteer, the President explained, will be enrolled by the British Red Cross and be protected by the Red Cross treaty of Geneva, which he said had been respected by belligerents since 1864.

Details of the plan, which is ready for immediate operation, were announced in an editorial for a forthcoming issue of the Journal of the American Medical association.

Successful applicants would serve for at least a year with the emergency medical service, treating principally civilian air raid and service casualties in Great Britain, or at royal army medical corps stations in Egypt, Palestine, India, Burma, Malaya, China, and East and West Africa.

Meet Training Requirements.

The volunteers, the editorial said, would not be obligated to enter military or naval service or to take an oath of allegiance to Great Britain, forfeiting their American citizenship.

The AMA has supplied the American Red Cross with lists of young physicians who may be qualified for overseas service and is aiding in the selection of local examiners and representatives to pass on applicants.

To qualify, volunteers must meet training requirements, be United States citizens, preferably without dependents, and under 41 years old for service with the royal army medical corps and under 46 for the emergency medical service.

Successful applicants in the royal army medical corps will be commissioned as lieutenants with promotion to the rank of captain upon renewal of contract after 12 months' service. Subsequent promotions would be based on merit.

Pay About Same as in U. S. Army.

Remuneration, substantially the same as paid to officers of the United States army medical corps, would be subject to the United States income tax rates instead of the higher British assessment. Compensation would be provided for injuries and disabilities. Comparable pay and protection are provided by the emergency medical service.

The appeal for medical reinforcement followed 24 years to the month the institution of a similar world war arrangement between the two nations.

DISTURBS PEACE IN RAID SHELTER; JAILED SIX WEEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 20.—Air raid shelters are no place to vent personal grudges against fellow shelterers. This was the opinion of the Berlin District court which sentenced a 43 year old man to 6 weeks in prison for "heaping vile abuse" on his landlord during an air raid alarm.

The prisoner was accused of insulting his landlord while the latter was wearing the uniform of an "upper group leader of the Air Raid Protection league." For this crime he was first sentenced to a fine of 50 marks [$20] or 10 days in jail. When he appealed, the sentence unexpectedly was raised to six weeks in prison.

The German press regarded this sentence as a warning to all thoughtless Germans to remember that those who, in time of common danger, choose to mark themselves as outsiders, nonmembers of the "community," or "disturbers of the peace" must reckon with severe court sentences.

Arrives to Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Edith Katarine Kann as she arrived in San Pedro, Cal., to wed physician.

San Pedro, Cal., April 19 (AP).—Five times a young Czech physician in New York called Edith Katarine Kann in Australia to propose. She couldn't understand a word. The sixth time she asked the telephone operator to do it for him. Back came the answer, "yes." Today Miss Kann, also a Czecho-Slovakian, stepped off a trans-Pacific liner, ready to marry Dr. A. P. Wachstatter, the persistent physician. She brought with her a five year movie contract.

BRITISH PUBLIC TOLD TO EXPECT GREATER U. S. AID

Believe Stimson Sees an 'Overseas' Army.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—Official quarters here are far from pessimistic over the course of military operations in Greece and Libya during the past week.

Temporary satisfaction is derived from what seems to have been general staff advice that a certain line in Greece is still defendable, at least until an orderly withdrawal can be made.

With the aid of the navy, Tobruk, Libyan port, it is said here not only will be held against a German onslaught, but will be reënforced to make further progress of the enemy toward Egypt a hazardous military undertaking.

Red Sea Lane Important.

President Roosevelt's opening of the Red sea to American shipping is interpreted as being of incalculable value in supplying the British armies defending Egypt and the Suez canal.

In the battle of the Atlantic officials and the press urge the public to see a silver lining in the clouds of mounting figures of ship sinkings.

The public is told information from America is reassuring regarding further American aid, even to convoying British supplies to their destination, if not an out and out declaration of war with Germany.

"American public opinion last week moved with a sudden lurch in the direction of approving United States navy convoys," an American commentator cable the Sunday Express.

Foresee U. S. "Overseas" Army.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's statement that American soldiers are being trained to fight anywhere is interpreted here as meaning "overseas."

The Sunday Express further said that "factories in Britain in the past year have given Britain a power that Hitler now can never break. If Hitler ever invades [Britain], he will not only be beaten, but destroyed."

NAVY IS WAITING F. D. R. SIGNAL TO START CONVOYS

However, It's Ill Equipped to Fight Bombers.

our navy for convoy duty, make no bones of their belief that a resolution authorizing convoys also would fail of passage.

They hold that the President possesses ample power to convoy arms cargoes or otherwise dispose our armed forces without the express authority of congress, but both Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] of the senate and Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, have given public assurance that Mr. Roosevelt will not order our warships to convoy duty without previously submitting the question to congress.

The President Hesitates.

The hesitation manifested by the President and his complaint that the people do not comprehend the gravity of the country's peril are widely construed to be an indication of his awareness of the stiffening of public sentiment against his war policy since the tide of war turned against the British in the Mediterranean. Before that untoward development Mr. Roosevelt opened the Red sea to the passage of American ships carrying arms cargoes to the British at Suez. Afterward, with Washington hearing from the folks back home, he told his press conference that no American ships were in the Red sea or going there in the near future.

Without adequate arming with heavy and also modern, light, quick firing antiaircraft guns, such as the British "pom-poms," our destroyers and cruisers would be unable to give effective protection to convoys of arms cargoes. Contracts for several thousands of these guns have been let and several thousand more are to be ordered, but it will be several months before quantity production can be reached. At present nearly all the antiaircraft equipment being produced is going to the British.

A Late Start.

The navy got a late start in revision of antiquated notions of protection of warships from aerial bombers. As late as the invasion of Norway last year, when German air power took such heavy toll of British sea power, the President saw no reason for any radical departure from the measures in vogue for withstanding the bombing of warships from the air.

When the navy did wake up to the changed aspect of naval warfare it made feverish efforts to procure antiaircraft batteries for warships that averaged twice the power and volume of fire of the guns with which the ships were equipped. Orders were given to equip not only the warships under construction and on order, but also the warships now in service with the more powerful batteries. The equipment of American merchant ships with antiaircraft guns also is contemplated.

Description of Weapons.

The modern gun now being built is a five inch 38 caliber weapon for use against both sea and air targets. Construction of a rapid firing 1.1 inch "pom-pom" type of four barrels also has been commenced. But it will be months before quantity production is attained.

Only the new destroyers are equipped with the 5 inch 38 caliber double purpose guns and none even of these ships have the new "pom-poms," which are designed particularly for use against dive bombers. All they have for this purpose is machine guns. The principal antiaircraft equipment of the older destroyers consists of 5 inch 25 caliber guns.

Diplomats in Nicaragua Buy Foe's Products Despite War

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 20.—Despite the war, the attachés of the German, Italian, and the British legations here continue to use the products of each other's countries. The German and Italian diplomats show predilection for Scotch whisky. The wife of the British attaché recently became ill and her physician prescribed a German made medicine. Her husband, however, requested an American friend to buy the palliative, saying it would hurt his wife less to take it than for him to buy from the enemy.

JAPS HINT RUSSIA MIGHT JOIN AXIS IN WAR BY JUNE

Picture U. S., Britain and China as the Foes.

TOKIO, April 20 (AP).—A portion of the Japanese press declared today that "it no longer is a crazy dream to expect a great war with Japan, Germany, Italy, and soviet Russia on one side, and the United States, Great Britain, and China on the other."

The newspaper Miyako, which was joined in this line of thought by other papers, said possible war between Germany and the United States necessarily would lead to "war between Japan and the United States" and that his war might come before June."

[Another dispatch quoted the Osaka Mainichi's report that the United States, Britain, China, British India, Australia, and the Netherlands East Indies had concluded a military and naval pact to strengthen their defenses in the far east to oppose Japan's southward advance and have pooled their military and material resources, including those of the Philippines, to maintain the status quo in the far east and protect their lines of communications.]

At the same time Japan and the soviet appeared to be accepting their neutrality pact of a week ago, at face value.

Japanese Remove Troops.

It was learned that there have been recent removals of Japanese troops in Manchukuo toward the south, in a direction indicating they were not bound for China, while the well informed newspaper Nichi Nichi reported that visas for foreign travel on soviet Russia's trans-Siberian railway have been banned from April 17 thru May 3.

[This may mean that soviet Russia, too, is moving her far eastern army, considered her best, toward a more troubled eastern Europe. Signing of the Japanese-Russian pact on Sunday, April 13, was accompanied by a declaration pledging mutual recognition of Manchukuo and Outer Mongolian frontiers defended by Japan and Russia. Observers have suggested that faith on both sides in this agreement would permit the Japanese to weaken their Manchukuo garrison for any southward move she may contemplate and at the same time allow the soviet to concentrate her interest on European events, particularly in the Balkans, and on guarding her own Ukraine. The Japanese troops movements may be toward ports where they could be embarked for a movement toward Singapore or Indo-China.]

Matsuoka at Manchuli.

Nichi Nichi's statement on Trans-Siberian travel was contained in a dispatch from Manchuli, on the Manchukuan-Siberian border where Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka arrived today from his historic tour of axis capitals and Moscow.

[The Osaka Mainichi said Russia is demanding the right to occupy the northern provinces of Iran [Persia] to protect the Baku oil fields and obtain an outlet to the Persian gulf in the event of a German drive on the Dardanelles. The report said Moscow is backing up these demands by concentrating troops at Tiflis for "maneuvers." Iranian air and train service to Russia have been suspended.]

Along with stories on Matsuoka's return, Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported under a Manila, Philippines, date line that United States army authorities had advanced the deadline for evacuation of army dependents from July 15 to May 15.

The dispatch said "special arrangements" were being made to speed the removal of women and children of army men.

Japanese Capture Ningpo.

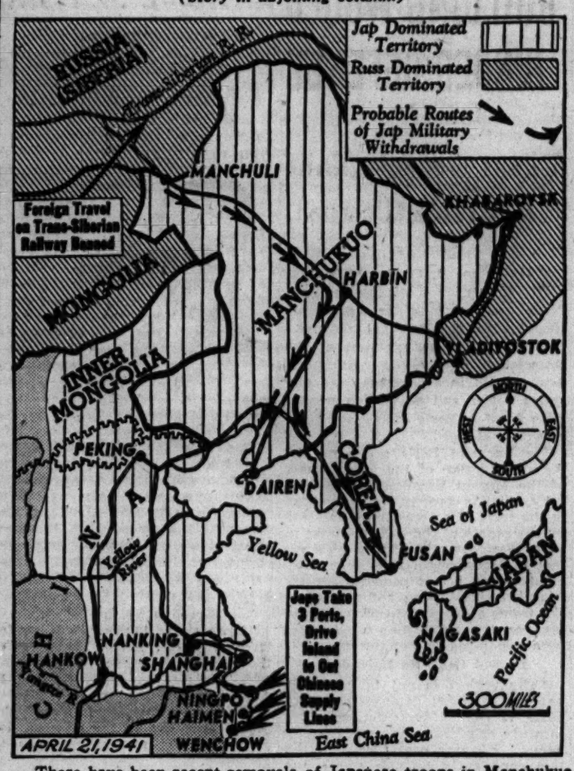
SHANGHAI, April 20 (AP).—The Japanese army announced today the capture of the Chekiang province ports of Ningpo, Wenchow and Haimen and a 50 mile drive inland from the latter in operations reportedly aimed at choking off Chinese supply lines in that area before American aid begins arriving on a large scale.

Chinese Admit Losses.

CHUNGKING, China, April 20 (AP).—The Cinese officially acknowledged tonight the Japanese capture of Chinhai and Haimen, and added that Japanese columns were advancing inland in the face of strong Chinese resistance. [The Japanese have not claimed capture of Chinhai].

Japanese Shift Troops in Manchukuo

(Story in adjoining column.)



There have been recent removals of Japanese troops in Manchukuo toward the south and reports that visas for foreign travel on soviet Russia's trans-Siberian railway have been banned from April 17 thru May 3. The recent Japanese-Russian pact was accompanied by a declaration pledging mutual recognition of Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia frontiers defended by Japan and Russia.

FINDS NO LONDON AREA ESCAPED BOMBS OF NAZIS

Tribune Writer Sees Many New Scars on Tour.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—The Tribune correspondent today spent several hours walking and riding thru London streets without finding a single district not showing new scars as a result of the intense all night German air bombardments of last night and last Wednesday.

Rescue squads and other groups worked all day extricating bodies and clearing débris from wrecked buildings or digging out many persons still living entombed in shelters, repairing roads, and services.

Shop Owners View Ruins.

In several places, extending for a distance of several blocks, rows of small shops were destroyed either by fire or high explosives and before them the owners, motionless and silent, stood contemplating the ruins. Other places, also extending for blocks, were roped off and deserted because of huge piles of masonry or craters in the roadway or dangerously sagging walks. Sometimes undamaged streets were roped off because of the presence of unexploded time bombs.

Traffic detours were so numerous that even taxi drivers, noted for their knowledge of the intricacies and maze of small winding streets in the metropolis, are having difficulty in worming their way about.

Strafe 2 Scottish Towns.

LONDON, April 20 (AP).—German daylight raiders strafed two Scottish towns today, killing a 3 year old boy and injuring 10 persons.

Other high-flying Nazi formations, soaring thru cloudless channel skies, also attacked the southeast coast, where the sound of machine gun fire and cannons of diving planes was heard.

London sirens sounded an alarm just before midnight but the "raiders-passed" signal followed quickly.

The RAF struck back with daylight raids on German shipping in the channel and against Brest and other targets on the Nazi-held French coast.

The air ministry announced that British bombers in their own offensive on Saturday sank a 5,000 ton axis supply ship and damaged another of 7,000 tons off the Netherlands coast.

German "Big Berthas" on the French coast added a few salvos to the air assaults, firing for a brief interval across Dover strait this morning.

The admiralty announced the loss of the yacht Torrent with an unstated number of casualties.

Dump 100,000 Fire Bombs.

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—One hundred thousand fire bombs and 1,000 high explosives were dumped overnight upon London by hundreds of planes in a raid "not secondary in force and effectiveness" to the Luftwaffe's last big attack on April 16, it was announced here tonight.

The high command described the raid on London as in retaliation for the big RAF raid on Berlin the night of April 18. It said fires visible for miles were started in the Thames bend, the Millwall docks, and the Greenwich area.

Planes were said to have destroyed two British merchantmen totaling 6,000 tons yesterday on the Scottish east coast.

Supplementing this account, authorized sources said an allied merchantman of 8,000 tons was sunk by air bombs in Greek waters yesterday.

GEN. WEYGAND SAYS WAR IS NOW IN 'GRAVE PHASE'

States African Army Would Fight Invader.

BY WILLIAM McGAFFIN.

ALGIERS, Algeria, April 20 (AP).—Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander of French forces in North Africa, expressed the belief during an interview today that the war had entered "a very grave phase" and reaffirmed his determination to defend French North Africa against any invader. He declared also that the unity of both empire and the French motherland remains constant.

The interview took place at the Winter palace. Arriving just as the sirens were sounding their first air raid practice warning since the armistice last summer, I was ushered past saluting officers to the general's office, just off a blue and white tiled Moorish courtyard.

The general wore a gray business suit, blue tie and white shirt. He rose to shake hands and then motioned me to a chair in front of a big desk.

"In your opinion, as one of the world's best known military experts, has the war entered a real decisive state?" I asked him.

"That would be difficult to say," he replied. "Modern weapons offer a strong offensive method, but permit also an equally persistent and prolonged defense. But if the war has not reached a decisive point, it has reached a very grave phase."

The conversation turned to President Roosevelt's decision to declare the Red sea no longer a combat zone and thus permit American ships carrying war materials to go there.

Gen. Weygand agreed that this created a new situation for North Africa. Asked about the reaction of French North Africa, he said:

"The word reaction involves two things, one physical, the other mental. The physical side poses the question of defense, the mental side the question of opinion. I don't know what the opinion is."

For defense, Weygand has an army whose morale is "good." He repeated a previous declaration that he would use the army against any power at-

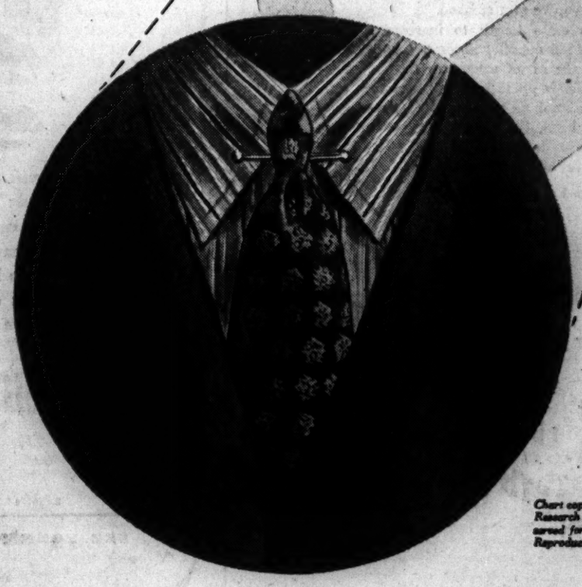
You can meet searching scrutiny with nonchalance

if your accessories are from Marshall Field's



Here's why: Field's shirt collars fit properly because they're cut on a curve, fashioned with just the right slope, spread and point. They're accurately sized and Sanforized (less than 1% shrinkage) to maintain that size. Field's patterned shirts are distinctive, many being ours exclusively in Chicago.

Since a man's tie is a natural eye target, we are extremely critical in our choice of patterns and exacting in our construction specifications. Field's ties possess verve and character. Field's ties are stitched by hand and lined with bias-cut wool to give them the resiliency that assures faultless knotting.

PETAIN CALLS ON FARMERS: GROW FOOD, BAR FAMINE

Broadcasts Plea as Tide of Criticism Rises.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, April 20.—Chief of State Marshal Petain, paying a visit to Pau, Tarbes, and Lourdes in the western Pyrenees region, today broadcast a radio appeal to French peasants and farmers to collaborate with his government's effort to save the French nation from famine.

The marshal told the farmers they were the backbone of the nation, both physically and morally. He promised governmental measures to give work on land the dignity it had before the rush to towns began. He also promised steps would be taken to make life in the country regions more tolerable.

Pleads for Higher Yields.

Petain especially pleaded with the farmers and peasants not to limit production to their own needs out of disgust with criticism from town dwellers, but to continue to make the yields as high as possible.

His appeal came at a moment when a tide of criticism was rising against nonenforcement of laws for equitable distribution of food supplies, exorbitant prices in the black [illegal] markets, and red tape and burocratic regulations that are declared to have as much to do with creating hunger here as does the actual shortage of food.

Moneyed Persons Can Eat.

Threats of punishment have been made against food profiteers and "food hogs." Special courts have been set up and special police for inspecting markets and market abuses have been established, but conditions still are much like they were. Any one with plenty of money eats all he wants while those with fewer resources fight for four or five hours in food lines each morning to get a subsistence ration.

Petain received an ovation everywhere he went. He attended church services, received oaths of fealty from war veterans' groups, talked with local authorities, and mingled with the crowds.

WIFE, 55, SHOOTS HUSBAND AFTER YEAR'S QUARREL

Otto E. Klaus, 53 years old, 4322 Washington boulevard, a printer, was shot five times last night by his wife, Elaine, 55, in a quarrel which, police said, was the culmination of a year long argument. He was taken to County hospital, where none of his wounds was said to be serious.

Mrs. Otto Klaus.

Both Klaus and his wife had been at liberty on peace bonds set last December in Fillmore Street court, when Mrs. Klaus had her husband arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. Lieut. Stewart Moss of the Fillmore police said the couple had been quarreling for months before that over Mrs. Klaus' accusation that her husband was interested in another woman. Last nigth, Moss said, Klaus seized his wife and she fired five shots with a revolver she had in their flat.

Klaus ran downstairs to the first floor apartment of Mrs. Louise Gerhard, 70. Visiting Mrs. Gerhard was her son, Harry M. Gerhard, 1911 South 8th avenue, Maywood, 6th district alderman and chairman of the Maywood police committee. Gerhard called police while his son, Thomas, 19, applied a turniquet to Klaus' arm.

Fun for the Navy

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Midshipman Norman Taylor and Shirley Stockwell, Northwestern university sorority member, sitting on stairs at dance.

Five hundred midshipmen from the naval reserve training school on the downtown campus of Northwestern university were entertained yesterday at a tea dance in the Evanston Country club.

The dance was sponsored by the training school, and 250 university sorority girls volunteered to help entertain the midshipmen. Others brought their own girl friends.

The Works Progress administration's Illinois music project presented a Negro version of the comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," before the dancing began. Capt. Banyaurd B. Wygant, United States navy, retired, commandant of the school, said the dance was so successful that others will be held in the near future.

CREDIT BOY OF 13 WITH SAVING LIVES OF 6 IN CAR

Guy Carnes Jr., 13 years old, of Morris, in Grundy county, was credited last night with saving the lives of his parents and four other persons when all six, riding in the elder Carnes' automobile, were overcome by carbon monoxide escaping from a faulty exhaust.

The senior Carnes was driving on U. S. highway 52 about three miles west of Joliet when one of the passengers, Roxy Lee Leffers, 11, of 911 Herkimer street, Joliet, collapsed. Carnes stopped the car, and was himself overcome. So were his wife, Rose, 40; Roxy Lee's sisters, Mildred, 15, and Billie Joy, 9, and Clayton Schoible, 22, a farm hand of Joliet township.

Guy Jr. got out of the car and ran to a nearby filling station to call police. Two Joliet fire department inhalor squads rushed to the scene and revived the victims.

CHARGES SEAWAY BUILDING WOULD HINDER DEFENSE

Railway Counsel Calls F. D. R. Project Unsound.

Washington, D. C., April 20 [Special].—Construction of the St. Lawrence seaway would be "positively harmful to the national defense," Robert V. Fletcher, counsel of the Association of American Railroads, said tonight in a debate on the proposed power and navigation project with Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state.

Fletcher and Berle spoke on the American forum of the air program of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

"A similar proposition, submitted in the form of a treaty, was rejected by the senate of the United States in 1934," Fletcher said. "Now by some feat of legerdemain this same project is to go before congress for approval, as if it were not subject to the terms of the constitution, providing for the ratification of treaties by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Project Can't Be Defended.

"The project is put forth in the name of national defense, but obviously it cannot be defended as a measure helpful in the present emergency," Fletcher continued. "I say this confidently because under the terms of the agreement, there is no obligation to complete the project before Dec. 31, 1948.

"In view of the cost of the project, variously estimated as between 500 million and one billion dollars, the number of men necessary to finish the work, estimated as 300,000 working for a year, the huge amounts of materials to be used, all diverted from defense projects immediately essential to the national defense, there would seem to be no doubt that the scheme is a serious menace to our defense program.

"Considered as a peacetime proposal and on economic grounds, this huge undertaking, which will probably cost three times as much as the Panama canal, finds no justification as a contribution to American welfare. It will be used almost entirely by ships of foreign registry, and for the importation of coal, ore and other commodities of foreign origin.

Business Men Fight Scheme.

"These and other reasons have convinced the great majority of our thoughtful citizens that the seaway should not be built. The principal labor organizations affected, together with 110 business organizations, many of them natioal in scope, have signified their opposition, on the ground that this is an un-American enterprise, with no economic justification and positively harmful to the national defense."

Berle argued that the project would bring the ocean "clear into the heart of the United States," and at the same time give a huge resource of electric power.

"We need this asset, and we need it now," he said.

"We need the two million additional horse power of St. Lawrence electricity—we are short of power at this minute," he continued.

"We need the shipbuilding which can be done in the great lakes—great lakes shipyards are lying idle, while seacoast shipyards are booked two years ahead."

Identifies Paroled Felon as Automobile Robber

Stanley Gall, 1950 21st street, a paroled convict who was arrested Saturday as he entered a stolen automobile, was identified at the detective bureau showup yesterday by the owner, Earl Kratochvil, 2408 South Christiana avenue, as the bandit who forced him to surrender the car Friday night. Gall was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary on April 19, 1934, for auto robbery and paroled last Dec. 23.

DANNY STANTON'S SEIZURE ORDERED IN HOME SLAYING

Blame Gaming War in Ex-Convict's Killing.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Once again a police message now 20 or more years old was flashed to the department yesterday.

James Ryan.

"Arrest Danny Stanton for murder," it read, repeating an order first broadcast during the bootleg wars of early prohibition days, then more frequently in gambling wars, and more recently whenever a south side slaying suggested that labor racketeering was the motive.

This time the victim was James [Cy] Ryan, 38 years old, an ex-convict who worked for a racing news service syndicate. Ryan was shotgunned to death thru the front window of his home at 5252 Aberdeen street at 1 a. m. yesterday as he sat in his front parlor reading a newspaper and waiting for his wife to brew a cup of tea.

Served a Prison Term.

"Ryan served 10 years in prison for larceny," Capt. Hugh McCarthy of the Stockyards police told the coroner. "He was an employé of M. L. Annenberg's racing service until Annenberg went to prison. Recently he represented one of the wire service groups selling race track news to gamblers.

"Ryan was shot and wounded last July, along with John McLeod, who was killed, when the two were the targets of masked gunmen. It was believed this shooting was a reprisal for the murders last June of James McGlade and Michael McGovern, known gunmen for Stanton. While Ryan was recuperating from his wounds Carroll D. Corcoran, handbook operator near 79th street and Ashland avenue, was killed."

Gambling Strife Blamed.

Coroner A. L. Brodie was told the shootings all resulted from a south side gambling war that had been continuing for many years. Brodie was informed that altho Stanton lost a guerrilla or a mercenary now and then, he never lost a battle or his liberty.

"Stanton rode roughshod over the south side for 20 years," Capt. McCarthy said. "When I took charge of the stockyards district four and a half years ago I ran him out of it. As far as I know he hasn't put a foot in this district since then."

Coroner Brodie was told Stanton operated a string of handbooks on the south side. Detectives said he was the political dictator of a number of wards and gave orders to commanders of some police districts.

When Brodie told the widow and the sister of Ryan that he intended to make a thoro investigation of the murder, the sister said:

"O, yes, that's what they said when Bubs was killed."

Ryan's sister is the widow of Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, a south side bootleg foe of Stanton who was shot while contesting with Stanton over one or another of Stanton's racket privileges, according to Capt. McCarthy.

Seeks to Hide Residence.

Ryan apparently had sought to keep his place of residence secret. Capt. McCarthy said the gas and electric light meters for his home were in the name of John Kelly, who owns the building and lives on the second floor. Kelly is a member of the operating engineers' union on which Stanton and his gangsters have preyed, police said.

Detectives found a snub nosed revolver in Ryan's home, and Brodie took it for ballistics tests. Brodie said he would test bullets fired from it with slugs taken from the bodies of recent gang victims.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

Mrs. Slava Schatz, 72 years old, died in Lutheran Deaconess hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Feb. 11 in a fall on the ice. She lived at 1314 North Damen avenue.

BUDDING BOY BANDIT LOSES HIS LOOT, TWO TEETH AND FREEDOM

Martin James O'Connor, 19 years old, of 675 North Clark street, last night was trying to make enough money to get downstate and find a job, he told Lieut. Walter McGloon of the Warren avenue police.

Using a toy revolver, O'Connor first robbed elevated station attendants at Sacramento avenue and Harrison street, and at 21st street and Western avenue, obtaining a total of $26. Then he walked into a liquor store at 2254 Madison street and forced the manager, James Stella, 24, to surrender $34.

"Where's your gun?" O'Connor asked Stella as he pocketed the money. Stella insisted that he had none. "I want a real gun," O'Connor complained.

At that remark David Penn, 34, a colored employé, struck O'Connor over the head with a beer bottle. Stella and two customers, Edward Dillan, 514 South Oakley avenue, and Thomas Dooley, 15 North Oakley avenue, pitched in. When police arrived, O'Connor had a black eye and numerous cuts and bruises, and lost two teeth. Police took his freedom.

OLD MEN IN WAR PAINT.

Cordell Hull, head of the state department, in charge of Mr. Roosevelt's war diplomacy, is 70. Henry Stimson of the war department, who is trying to raise and equip a new American army for service which he does not deny may be found abroad, is 73. Frank Knox, secretary of the navy department, who seems to be for all war short of nothing, is 67.

Mr. Roosevelt himself is going on 60 and his sons do not appear to be in any danger of being anywhere near the first bomb explosion. Carter Glass of Virginia, whose war spouting is canceling out something of his excellent record of service to his country, is 83. Harold Ickes, whose official assignment is to call every American who thinks first of his own country a Hitler dupe, a Fascist agent, a fifth columnist, or an imbecile, is 67.

These old men are prominent in the ranks of the ancients who are demanding that American youth be sent to the wars. They themselves have nothing to lose by their official acts or by their drum thumping. They may throw their country into a deadly conflict and be unharmed by it. They will find even its money consequences comparatively light. Some of them will only return to the treasury a bit of the money the taxpayer has paid them. The war won't enter their homes and if it does anything to them it will only add to their sense of playing primary rôles in a great historic drama. They may anticipate an enhancement of the importance of their names in their country's record, however painful that record may be.

These old men will even be safe from the long consequences the war will impose upon the younger people who will have to fight it when they're young and pay for it as they grow older. These ancients at their ages will pass away while the people whose destinies they have shaped will be living thru the period of hardship and prolonged and painful readjustment to be foreseen as the consequence of their acts.

Most of the men whose fate is in the hands of these old men would be quite willing to risk everything in a conflict in which the United States was in danger. They are not willing to make the sacrifice merely because certain ancients have a gospel of the four freedoms everywhere in the world.

It is a terrible thing for old men to inflict a war on a generation which should be protected from it and should be protected by the very men who are acting otherwise.

A country is fortunate when it can look to its old men for wise counsel and good advice, coming out of what should be a wide experience with human mistakes and follies and the consequences of them.

Our follies are the follies of men who should be the wise elder statesmen.

WILD LIFE IN AND ABOUT CHICAGO.

The hepaticas have come up and the first chipmunk has come out. Why one chipmunk precedes the multitude by several weeks has never been satisfactorily explained by the nonnaturalist observer. Possibly this fellow is a scout in Canaan. Anyway, the hepaticas are more welcome because what a good crop of chipmunks can do to the premises is equaled probably only by an active crew of oil diggers. However, nature has made provision for him and them—and that, in logic, is that.

The bluebells are showing an increasing promise and the violets are all that could be asked of them at this time. The cardinal is singing his sunrise song and the robin is singing to the sundown. The yellow hammer is excavating the lawn to demonstrate that the worm is the meekest of food creatures in whose equities nobody has any interest. The scilla is the most magnificent bloom of the present day, but the adder's tongue is alongside it in bud, the bloodroot is in full bloom, and, of course, crocus and hyacinth and jonquils are filling in the spaces which are dotted with cottage tulips about to open.

The purple finch is about, the juncoes are in and out, and presently the red-headed woodpecker will come along to beat a tattoo on the drain pipes, leaving the early morning citizen to wonder whether his serenader is drunk on the sap of the sugar maple or is merely advertising that he's in the market for a marriage license. The less romantic but more interesting idea is that this bird is tight when he drums on the pipes. Several days of a maximum of 83, followed by the gentle rains, are turning the winter, which was not so much of our discontent, into the spring to which we have long been accustomed.

It is now about time for a good hard frost and a foot or so of snow.

WHEN JOBS GO BEGGING.

Mr. Bartlett of our sports department, making his rounds of the golf courses, discovers that between the draft and increased industrial employment the clubs are having difficulty in recruiting caddies.

At the height of the season there are 25,000 or 30,000 jobs carrying clubs and following balls for the golfers of the Chicago area. The work is far from unpleasant. The caddy is paid to take the same exercise and enjoy the same fresh air that the player goes to considerable expense to get and, judging from personal experience, the strain on his arteries must be appreciably less. The pay, while not magnificent, can equal or exceed that received by an unskilled laborer on WPA.

Accordingly, it seems rather strange that there should be a shortage of labor at an occupation requiring little training when the current relief rolls of the city of Chicago list more than 173,000 cases. The state free employment agency, which is supposed to make a special effort to place relief recipients and WPA employés in private employment, does not seem even to have canvassed the golf clubs for job opportunities, altho many caddymasters prefer adult caddies to boys.

Housewives in Chicago can add another chapter to this story. They are finding it difficult or impossible to get domestic help, particularly full time housemaids. There has been a considerable pickup in industrial employment for women as well as men, but neither that nor the shortage of help in relatively low paid occupations seems to have caused any significant reduction in the city's relief load.

It may be that the approach to reëmployment has been wrong. It has been the practice to leave it largely to the reliefer to find the job, and to extend relief until he finds one. If it can be established that there are unfilled jobs in substantial numbers, the opposite practice might be adopted—withdraw the relief from the able bodied and let the recipient hustle for work. If proper machinery for job placement existed, this would work few undeserved hardships.

POP-GUN CONVOYS.

An appalling lack of antiaircraft weapons for our navy has been revealed in dispatches from Washington. Not even the latest and largest of our battleships are fully armed against bomber attack. The smaller vessels which would be used for convoy duty for the most part have only obsolete antiaircraft weapons and not enough of them.

The navy is well satisfied with its big 5-inch antiaircraft cannon, but there aren't enough of these guns to go around and there is little prospect of an adequate supply for many, many months to come. Meanwhile the navy must rely to a large extent upon obsolete 3-inch antiaircraft guns which fire a smaller shell and have a much shorter range. Bombers now fly at heights which are well beyond the range of the 3-inch gun.

The shortage of modern rapid fire guns of smaller caliber for use against dive bombers and torpedo launching planes is even more acute. British experience has shown the need for weapons of this category, but we have few of them which can be regarded as up to date and little prospect of acquiring them in quantity for a long time.

As we lack modern weapons for our ships of war we can hardly have any to spare for arming merchant ships. That goes without saying.

In those circumstances to talk about employing our navy in convoy duty is little short of treasonable. Even with the best antiaircraft equipment, capable of driving enemy planes to great heights and of following the flight of a dive bomber, the risk to the naval vessel is considerable. Without such equipment our destroyers and cruisers would enter the war zone at a severe handicap and it is not to be doubted that a disproportionately large number of them would be lost and their crews drowned.

If there is one lesson which this war has taught it is that gallantry and skill in old-fashioned warfare are of little avail against the new weapons of attack in the hands of well trained men. Those who are talking so glibly of sending our navy into convoy service, unprepared as it is to fight airplanes, are asking for a catastrophe.

The navy is the first line of defense and it lacks antiaircraft weapons. The situation of the army is as bad or worse. We haven't enough of the old 3-inch antiaircraft cannon to protect even our principal harbors and we are only now beginning to get delivery of the larger guns which the war in Europe has shown to be needed. Britain has no antiaircraft guns to spare for us. All she has and all she can produce for the present are needed for her own fighting services. When we acquire the guns we must still train the crews to handle them.

After what has happened in Poland, in France, in Norway, Holland, Belgium, Jugo-Slavia, and now in northern Greece, it ought not be doubted that ill-armed forces are no match for well-armed forces. Nevertheless, the advocates of the convoy system have learned nothing from this experience. They are demanding that this country make precisely the same mistakes which were made by the countries which Germany has overrun. They are asking us to commit a suicidal, a criminal folly.

Editorial of the Day

UNPROFITABLE REFLECTION.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

The other night Radio Commentator Raymond Gram Swing said that to say that men could not stop tanks was to admit that man was about to be controled by mechanical devices of his own creation, and that this was an intolerable thought. Doubtless it seemed equally ridiculous to the crossbow marksman when he found his arrows bouncing off newly invented coats of mail which armorers had produced as the secret weapon of antiquity. The concept of Nazis racing over European Africa in high powered kiddy-kars and actually controling events still seems like a Walt Disney nightmare to most of us. It is easier to settle down to accustomed thinking, in war as in other human activity.

The apparent monopoly of the Germans in the development and use of tanks in this war is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the tank was invented by the British and, in spite of its premature appearance on the field of battle and various bunglings in connection with its early manufacture, the Germans always gave the tank a large amount of credit for the result of the last war. So highly did they regard the caterpillar principle of locomotion that they concentrated on its production, while France dug in behind her Maginot line and relegated to the rear rank the few officers who tried to point out that for the coming war of mobility an immobilized defense would not be enough. The British army similarly disposed of its iron-minded officers. They believed in tanks, but had no conception of the vast numbers of these armored units which would be required.

Of course, if you wait long enough, the bullet renders the coat of mail obsolete, and a similar fate probably remains for the tank. However, if Hitler should win this war, he would see to it that Germany has a monopoly of production of weapons such as these. As long as the Nazi tyranny retains its vitality it is difficult to imagine a subject nation sneaking up with the right weapon to dispute Nazi control. But, as the insurance salesman says, these two final thoughts. One: Hitler has not yet won the war. Two: Twenty-five years ago it was the allies who had all the weapons when the war ended. Victorious Nazis—which heaven forbid—might be equally inept in keeping an advantage.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS READS A BOOK.

21st April—To take my mind off the war, did spend a part of the Sabbath in looking over a book called "The Elegant Eighties," by Herma Clark, a co-worker, and did find it a re-creation of the city of my early childhood. Did admire the printing of this book too, for it is handsome enough to win a prize in an exhibition of the typographical arts. My shelves are bulging, but this book I shall keep, for it awakens dim memories of days before I was sent to school. Elegance, however, was something I knew not of, except when I stood on the curb of Ashland avenue to watch the carriages roll by.

Went to see the French pictures at the art museum again, to get the thunders of distant battles out of my ears, and decided the portrait of Mme. Jolly, an actress of 150 years ago, looks like Helen Hayes, the actress of today. Glanced at a modern picture called "The Gate at Versailles" and thought it made the great palace of French history look like a small town jail; and heard an art student beside me say to his girl friend, "He laid an egg that time."

Did read in an old French book a passage that might have been written today, speaking of the danger of political discussions in family circles and groups of friends, because it led to the calling of names and thoughts of hatred. It ended with, "But such is the contagion that there is no hiding place remote enough, no solitude lonely enough, to conceal and protect the man who wants to keep a happy heart above the storms of our political disagreements."

So it was in France when George Sand wrote "Indiana" in 1831; so it is among us today. Now to begin another week of it.

LOVE KNOWS NO DEATH.

All things shall pass?
No! Love lives on,
Tho the beloved
For years is gone!

Grandmother waits
With folded hands
While Grandfather walks
Along pearl-gold strands.

Content, she smiles,
Knowing some day
They'll stroll together
A broad, high Way,

And the love they shared
Will not disappear,
But shine renewed
In a grandchild's tear.

The Duke Buys a Hat for the Duchess.

Tha day before Easter I got told that other men sometimes go along with their wives to help pick out a hat. My answer was that any bird who wood go wasn't a man and if he wood go he'd be tha type that carried a comb, wore his handkerchief up his cuff and didn't hafta wear a pansy in his button hole. I must of given a ½ doz. reasons fer not going and even bawled her out fer suggesting it.

When we got to Madame Mitzi Lé Juneau's [née Tillie Ginzberg] Shoppe I start looking around hoping there's no one in tha place that knows me. A tall blonde Norwegian, who I hope gets her lipstick an red nail goo wholesale, is sicked on us by Mitzi in tha following manner:

"Ya Vonne dear, pleeze show zee beautiful madame our laytez creeay-shaunz a la Paree."

I know phoney French when I hears it, but this stuff actually smelt from herring. A minute later I nearly hit tha ceiling when tha Norsk gal pulls this act:

"Wiz Madame's exqueezeet complegsjon I wood sug-jess as you say in zee America a auf de face mah-dell."

Well tha mama must of tried on 50 or maybe 80 hats while I burned up 20 cigarettes an wore out 6 yds. of their carpet. I think the only thing she didn't try on were the show-cases. Everytime she asked how a certain one looked I say, "Sweil, Honey," figgering she'd take it an then I cood of opened tha door and got myself back to the United States.

Finally tha mama thanks tha gal fer her trouble an tells her she's just looking an probably wood be back an take the red and yellow one with tha lavender grapes on it. After we get out on tha sidewalk I discover I left my muffler in tha emporium, and they didn't see me come back in, and here's what I heard:

Mitzi: "I'm a tellin ya Annie if ya muff another sale yer canned."

Sunday morning tha mama went back and bought tha first one that she tried on the night before. Some guy once said you cant live with them—or without them. Duke Bakrak.

DESERT BLOOM.

The desert is so barren, arid, dry;
Yet lizards thrive and cacti blossom there
Tho burning sand sends up a blinding glare
And calculating buzzards circle by.
Those wild, uneven stretches, lands that lie
In sight of vegetation, yet so bare;
With few redeeming points, altho men dare
To live while cloud-banks seldom dull the sky.

But let the flooding rains beat down, the gloom
All vanishes; the desert place will glow
With gorgeousness of color. It will smile
And laugh, when gay verbenas burst in bloom!
Thru God's wildflower garden breezes blow;
And rainbow hues will flutter, mile on mile.

Old man Hansen was nearsighted and rheumatic, but crotchety enough to live forever; at least we thought so until we saw him flat on his stomach on the sidewalk the other morning. We ran out to carry in the body, but were profanely repulsed by his inquiry as to whether a taxpayer couldn't see if his grass was coming up without everybody getting excited. Quizzicuss.

The other day my wife and I got on a Wentworth avenue car and absent-mindedly I gave the conductor 10 cents for our fare. He looked at me and then at the dime and said, "I'm sorry, sir, but she's a big girl now." Tabarin.

THE EFFICIENT USE OF ARTIFICIAL LIGHT.

LIGHTING, as a rule, receives but little attention. We measure acceptability by comfort. Glare is prevented by means of shades, and we put the book down when strain becomes too great.

The nearer that illumination can come to daylight the better. But there is a striking difference in power. An individual seated near a clean window has at his command, if the sky is bright, more than 200 foot candles. [A unit is the light of a candle at a distance of one foot.] Furthermore, the rays are dispersed so evenly that all portions of the page are clearly visible.

What intensity is essential? An average of 10 to 20 foot candles will be sufficient. An oversupply will be accompanied by glare. If there is not enough, distress will follow. Those who prefer 5 are virtually groping in the dark. For very close tasks, such as sewing or watchmaking, 50 foot candles may not be excessive.

Does age alter requirements? Yes, because as we grow older there is a tendency to demand more refulgence. This is true particularly between 35 and 50 years. The eyes are changing during this period and refractive errors that need correction are concealed by increasing the illumination. In other words, those with below par vision are likely to assert that a well lighted room is dusky. Many of these same persons will function perfectly with proper glasses. Those past 50 years of age usually find that their optics have settled down to a steady performance and many will not need more than 10 to 15 foot candles.

Why is brilliance annoying? One reason is because the seeing machinery is obliged to do considerable extra adjusting. As we know, a camera will produce a sharper image when the diaphragm is small. In the same way the eyes, in attempting to focus distinctly, will oblige the pupils to contract.

Apparently glare does about as much damage as inadequate light and there are two main sources—namely, the things we are handling and the lamp itself. Furthermore, in the artificial form there is relatively weak diffusion. This explains why we seek a balanced illumination—one that does not reflect directly. We can avoid some trouble by using shades. Without them the page would appear too vivid.

The color of paper and ink likewise is an important factor. Black is better on white. Moreover, both materials should be free from gloss. A surface that is very slightly yellow or blue is nearly as satisfactory, but a greenish tint is not recommended. Sheets that are thin and printed on both sides, so that the type shows thru, are obviously disturbing. Blue bulbs may emit too much green. Fatigue tests made by experts show poorer results with many of these colored varieties than with the ordinary commercial product.

But what is desirable may be a long way from actual working conditions. In one university library 12 different reading spaces were tested and 92 per cent showed 5 or fewer foot candles. Most of the rooms depended upon an indirect system entirely, which dimmed as the ceilings became dusty. A change to 10 foot candles was remarked upon by every one as not only conducive to study but to the abatement of fatigue.

The ideal fixture is one in which the rays reach the ceiling, the walls and, at the same time, are thrown upon the work at hand. The edges of the shade must be outside the eyeline so that the orbits are protected.

Again, adjusting the position of the apparatus is of real importance. A right-handed person places the stand to his left and behind the line of the shoulders. An open top device or its equivalent is suggested, with the sides at such an angle that the rays will fall over the shoulder. The reflection from the ceiling provides excellent diffusion.

This brings us to the dictum that a combination of "direct" and "indirect" gives the best results. If the walls and ceiling are covered with a nonshiny paper or paint they will serve splendidly as spreading surfaces.

SEVERAL DISORDERS.

You probably refer to cerebrospinal meningitis, which has borne this name for many years. The term is also applied to Rocky mountain tick fever and to typhus.

WHITE OR DARK?

F. G. writes: What is meant by "white" meat?

REPLY.

Just what it says. The breast of the chicken is white; the legs and thighs, dark. There is a slight difference in nutritive value.

DRAFT EXEMPTION FOR BRITISH ALIENS.

Chicago, April 16.—Just listened to a special broadcast over station W-G-N by Miss Lillian Gish, pro-American, and a Mr. Kerwin of the University of Chicago, pro-British.

Also this afternoon I as a draft board chairman looked over about 30 questionnaires returned in the last few days. In these questionnaires I found six aliens of British nationality who had been in this country from 6 to 10 years. Aliens, of course, are exempt from the draft.

Mr. Kerwin in his speech stated that now was the time to add two and two so that it would make four. That is just what I am doing when I add Mr. Kerwin's statement to the fact that these six Britishers who have been enjoying the blessings of this great country of ours all these years but consider it beneath them to take out citizenship papers and subject themselves to the draft. It does not quite make four.

BUNDLES FOR TRAINING CAMPS.

Chicago, April 7.—To F. B. E.'s query in today's Voice of the People as to what Father Saunders means by asking for presents for the boys in Camp Forrest, the answer is just this:

Isn't it just as easy to ask for pianos for our boys in camps as it is to ask for "bundles for Britain"? How do we know the British get those bundles, and if we do send a bundle to any of our boys in any of the camps in the United States we know they receive them because there is always a grateful letter of acknowledgment.

It is high time that something be done for our own boys in the camps thruout the United States. It is our first duty toward them to make their stay at camp just as comfortable and enjoyable as possible. B. F. P.

HE READ SECRETARY STIMSON.

East Chicago, Ind., April 17.—I cannot agree with The Tribune's statement that our secretary of war lost readers rather than gained them by having printed in its entirety his statement to the senate committee investigating the progress of the rearmament program. No summary would have sufficed. Every full blooded American realizes that we are now forming a chapter of history equally important for us as the American revolution and the civil war. Naturally we want to know all the facts regarding our arms program. Neither our conscience nor our pride could permit anything less.

CYRUS C. MARDEN.

A CHANGED SONG.

Chicago, April 17.—A word in explanation concerning the disagreement over foreign policy between President Hutchins, the students, and some of the University of Chicago professors. To begin, there are many more students who agree with Mr. Hutchins than the instructors realize. For several years the pupils have been told about the diplomatic rehearsals and behind the scene connivings of European nationalists. Whole lectures were devoted to the point that the Versailles treaty, written in vengeance, was but a temporary peace plan. It was concluded that America erred in entering the war.

Now some of these very same professors who so spoke seek to convince President Hutchins and the students that the United States should again fight in Europe. Forgotten is the price America paid for an allied victory in which her peace suggestions were repugned by both England and France. As a result, these University of Chicago professors are weakening their own reputations in the wishful conviction that a British victory will result in sweetness and light for all the peoples of Europe and the world. Unfortunately, sincere university professors do not write the peace terms for any war. Thus the students hesitate about joining any European war movement, for history dissuades them from such action. CHARLES BOSS,

NEGRO CADDIES.

Chicago, April 18.—The article on the shortage of caddies in the Chicago district by Charles Bartlett in the sports section of today's issue is very interesting.

The District Caddymasters' association, evidently, is and has been run along the lines of many corporations now handling national defense contracts; i. e.: Neither can see the Negro worker.

There are many hundreds of Negro boys who have been desirous of earning funds for a livelihood or for schooling by caddying, only to be barred because of their color.

I am certain that an honest hard-working colored caddy is as welcome to a fair minded member as any other.

HORACE M. MCDOUGAL.

SMOKE INSPECTION.

Chicago, April 17.—Recently I heard of two loop building engineers who had been called before the smoke inspection department because smoke had issued from the building smokestacks; four minutes and two minutes, respectively.

Each of these buildings, together with most of those surrounding them, is air conditioned and all the air is filtered. Why don't these inspectors visit the residential districts where, in our case, the school together with most of the apartment buildings smoke so profusely at times our baby has to take its daily airing on a closed porch.

IRRITATED MOTHER.

FOR A FOUR YEAR CITY COLLEGE.

Chicago, April 15.—It is hard to realize that any one can oppose a four year city college, especially as it is generally known that such an institution involves a reallocation of city funds rather than new appropriations. Grammar schools are losing enrollment and need less money. The trend is expected to hit high schools in a few years—that is the solution right there.

No new buildings are needed, since the school day could be extended in the junior colleges till 10 p. m. as it is in New York City college. The equipment is in these schools, too. The faculty would have to be enlarged, but there will be a corresponding decrease in the faculty of the grammar schools.

LINDBERGH AND ICKES.

Chicago, April 18.—Fourteen thousand people turned out to hear our much respected Col. Charles A. Lindbergh discuss whether the people of the United States wish their sons to again fight wars on foreign soil. How long do you suppose it would take Old Scatter Brains Ickes to get as large a crowd? Even the Eskimos have his number.

MAKING OF WILL.

Lax, Wis., April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can the clerk of court write my will? Will that hold legal in court?

2. Can I leave my property to whom I wish?

3. Can relatives break the will in court?

4. Do I have to employ an attorney?

H. J.

1. You are in a better position to estimate his capacities than we are.

2. Yes. Except if you are married you cannot deprive your husband of his statutory share.

3. In general they would have to prove undue influence, lack of testamentary capacity, or that the will was not properly executed.

4. While the statute does not require the employment of an attorney, we consider such employment advisable. If you try to economize by dispensing with expert help you are likely to make mistakes which will cost much more than an attorney would have charged to see that the job was done right in the first place. In addition, an attorney might make valuable suggestions as to the wisdom of your testamentary plan.

If, despite the above, you wish to try to handle the matter for yourself, you should obtain a printed form from a stationer and see that it is executed in strict accordance with the attestation clause which precedes the space for signature of witnesses. The services of a notary are not necessary, and it is not safe to assume that a notary will be a competent adviser.

1. The number of calories per day in a sensible reducing diet for the average woman is 600 1,300 2,100 3,300.
2. "Counterpoint" is a term used in Music Medicine Carpentry Surveying.

5. A group of pigs is usually described as a Troupe Bevy Flock Drove.
6. In childhood we seldom paid attention to the names of the authors of the books which we read. In fact, my college students seldom know who are the writers of their textbooks. But it is an educational asset and a good talking point to be able to identify the author with his book. You deserve one point, therefore, for each correct matching of author and volume below.

Melting Pot Story.

Several Italian lads entered Hull House one evening last week on their way to an Italian gathering. They were wearing similar lapel buttons and a Hull House friend inquired the significance of the badges.

"Greek war relief," one of them answered. "We've just come from a Greek benefit and we gave $3 apiece for these buttons." Then he added: "We're Americans, and we're supporting those people."

Easter Flowers.

Easter Flowers, MacKinley Kantor's story in the current number of a national weekly, commemorizes the little wild pasque flower of the prairie sod. Tradition is that it never grows on tilled land. On Easter Sunday, in the sandy reaches of Mason county, Illinois, Louie Dorr writes from Chandlerville, Ill., the lavender-to-white petals of the pasque flower opened in old Bethel cemetery. Across a dune swept grave a trail of the silk stemmed Easter flowers held down the sand, flitting greeting to the day. At the head of the grave was the marker, a smooth red brick.

Pendulum Note.

A large silver plane flew low over a back yard on Marcy avenue in Evanston, where a little girl named Barbara Rossiter was playing. Paying no attention to the plane, she happened to look up and see, thru the trees, two horses plodding down the street a block away. Even the plane's roar could not drown out her excited shrieks of "Hossie! Hossie! Her mother thought how when she was a child even the distant drone of an airplane brought people rushing from houses, hopeful of catching a glimpse of this new wonder.

Galsworthy's Theory.

Using the word "wonder" in the preceding paragraph, one remembers a comment recently made by Author Mary Hastings Bradley. She said that the late John Galsworthy made an appeal to the various nations to outlaw the building of airplanes. They would mean the destruction of civilization, he told her.

Leaders of Middle West Pay Tribute to Jesuits' 400 Years

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Nearly 1,000 civic, educational and religious leaders of the city and central west last night paid tribute to 400 years of Jesuit history at a banquet at the Stevens hotel. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago and Dr. Harry M. Gage, president of Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., were the principal speakers.

Archbishop Stritch recalled the age of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, as one of what he called excesses. It was the age, he said, of Machiavelli when man was made the center of all things and a vague humanism was evolving. St. Ignatius, the archbishop explained, was not content with fragmentary truth, but wanted truth which centered in God—the whole truth.

"We are moved to congratulate the Jesuits and thank them for what they have done for religion and education these 400 years," said Archbishop Stritch, "but those years have sounded the truth of St. Ignatius' vision. In looking out for truths that center in God with the higher men's skills the nearer we are to God. St. Ignatius sought to give man back his divinity."

Dr. Gage declared the Society of Jesus to be endowed with eternal youth. He described the society as a witness to the changeless and eternal in a changing world.

"Evolutions and changes are passing. In God nothing is new," Dr. Gage said. "The Jesuits have taught us to avoid this disease that runs after everything that says, 'I am new,' but to hold to a sense of direction that centers in the eternal."

The Rev. Samuel Knox Wilson, S. J., president of Loyola university, responded on behalf of the Jesuits.

Praise for Jesuit teachers and institutions was voiced by James C. O'Connor, president of the Loyola University Alumni association, and by Bernice McDermott of Loyola alumnae. In addition to administrators of Jesuit institutions, presidents of many Illinois colleges were at the speakers' table.

These included Dr. E. E. Rall of North Central college, Naperville; Frederick R. Hamilton of Bradley Polytechnic institute, Peoria; Dr. H. Gary Hudson of Illinois college, Jacksonville; Dr. Arthur C. Willard of the University of Illinois, Dr. Olgath Ohlson of North Park college, 3225 Foster avenue, and Dr. John H. Sexton of Albion college, Albion, Mich. Edward J. Farrell, a member of Loyola university administrative council, presided at the banquet.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The new lowered requirements for an opening one no trump bid in the Culbertson system involve a point which may seem small, but which nevertheless is worth stressing. I refer to the fact that in calculating no trump bids [or four card suit bids] the presence of six or more honor cards adds a plus value to the total honor trick count.

North, dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ K J 7 5 ♥ A 6 4 ♦ K 10 6 ♣ A 7 6
WEST ♠ 9 6 4 ♥ Q J 10 5 ♦ J 7 2 ♣ Q 5 3		EAST ♠ 10 ♥ 9 8 3 2 ♦ Q 8 5 4 ♣ J 10 9 4
	SOUTH ♠ A Q 8 3 2 ♥ K 7 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ K 8 2

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	6 spades—final bid

I do not mean to imply that North-South cannot reach a six spade contract except thru an opening no trump by North. What I do want to emphasize is that the six spade contract may be fulfilled only because North holds the ten of diamonds instead of a lower card. Moreover, it is that very diamond ten which brings North's honor cards to the total of six, and it is the plus valuation for those six honor cards which, in connection with North's three-plus honor tricks, ekes out the requirement for a minimum no trump.

It is one thing to reach a sound slam, however, and quite another thing to fulfill it. The play is not difficult, but declarer must have a knowledge of good technique. West's opening lead is the heart queen. Declarer wins in either hand and draws trumps in three rounds. His next step must be to cash the top clubs and the other top heart, then [and this is the vital play] to eliminate dummy's third heart by ruffing. Now the stage is set for a play that has an odds-on chance for success. Declarer merely exists with the third club. He does not care which defender wins this trick nor what he returns. His entire plan rests on the strong probability that the diamond honors will be "split," one to each defender. If the defender who takes the third club leads another club or a heart, he ruffs in one hand while discarding a diamond from the other.

The more likely defense, however, will be for the defender to lead a diamond. Suppose it is West who makes this play. His low diamond lead is ducked in dummy and East's queen is taken by the ace; then a finesse is used against the jack. If East wins the third club and leads a diamond, declarer ducks and the result is the same. Needless to say, if West leads the diamond jack, dummy's king is played and the queen is finessed; if East leads the diamond queen this process is reversed.

Two Choruses Join Orchestra in Giving Beethoven Symphony

BY CECIL SMITH.

For its last concert program of the season yesterday the Civic orchestra, conducted by Hans Lange, presented Beethoven's ninth symphony, with the assistance of the Lake Shore Choral society and the Chicago Singverein, as well as Lois Fehr, soprano; Anne McIsaac, contralto; Leonard Balsamo, tenor, and Holger Sorenson, baritone. The symphony was preceded by three works of George Friedrich Handel—the Overture in D major [arranged by Franz Wüllner], the little known Concerto in F major, for two wind choirs and string orchestra [arranged by Gustav F. Kogel], and the anthem, "Zadok the Priest," written for the coronation of George II.

The concert was perhaps the most remarkable one ever given by the Civic orchestra. The symphony was presented with extraordinary success from every point of view. But even if it had not been, the program would have been significant as a manifesto of Hans Lange's new and broadened educational outlook for the orchestra. It was a magnificent thing to see so great and so demanding a work as the ninth symphony undertaken by the youngsters of the orchestra in coöperation with two local singing groups and a quartet of promising preprofessional singers. This is the stuff a valuable and lasting musical culture is made of—the opportunity to present masterworks, after weeks of painstaking preparation, in circumstances less formidable and more informal than those of the usual commercial concert.

The ninth symphony is exceptionally—even excessively—difficult, but the youngsters of the Civic orchestra played most of it with ease and accuracy, bringing a great deal of zest to the scherzo and an expressive line to the long melody of the slow movement. The chorus was none too large, but its members sang as a well trained unit, and their precision and responsiveness to Mr. Lange's beat made every moment count to the maximum effect.

The Handel music was a delightful change from some of the shopworn staples of the conventional repertory. Mr. Lange conducted them well, with the same evidence of careful and penetrating study that marked his performance of the Beethoven symphony. It was a red letter day for the Civic orchestra, and one that presages many exceptional events in Orchestra hall in the Civic orchestra concerts next season.

Frances Kacello, soprano, sang a program last night in Kimball hall, listing songs of Italian, German, Russian, and American origin, and the aria, "Depuis le jour," from Charpentier's "Louise." When she sings pianissimo her voice possesses a charming quality. As she puts pressure on it, especially in the upper half, it begins to show signs of strain and spreading of tone. Her interpretations were securely learned and well planned.

Town Is Taken by New Color: It's Berry Red

BY REA SEEGER.

Reviving memories of strawberry festivals, one of the smartest color promotions ever launched has been a sellout to all the appreciative spring shoppers. Window after window filled with the varying colors and shades of strawberries, from the juicy crimson of freshly picked berries to the luscious shades of strawberries and cream and pale tints of strawberry ice cream, present a mouth watering showing, even to the unlucky passers-by who are allergic to this delectable fruit.

Green daytime dresses, suits, and costumes, strawberry red dinner and evening gowns, or combinations of these two colors in coat and dress ensembles; green and strawberry red accessories that include huge berry clips of realistic red enamel with green leaves, are only a few of the finds. It's the strawberry prints that get the applause. Cool white chintz, for instance, vividly splashed with printed berries and leaves, is made into crisp spring house coats, country club dresses with full skirts, vee necklines, bodices with short sleeves. Play suits, swim suits, slacks, and skirts also flaunt this berry print.

Yardage comes with the same print in cotton and silk . . . One of the smartest daytime dress fabrics is a dull black background with precisely spaced printed design of red and green strawberry clusters. Lingerie in cool sheer white cotton is imprinted with the same pattern. Silk gowns and negligees also.

Kitchen and breakfast nook curtains and spring luncheon tables planned for outdoor terrace entertaining, all feature this color idea.

The most interesting showing of all is the variations of the strawberry jam and ice cream pink shades used in printed silk by the yard for the "sewing bees." All the variegated shades of green are likewise included in these print finds along with the flattering solid colors of the red to pink and the pale green to dark glossy leaf green of America's most popular springtime berry.

Good Morning!

If Socrates hadn't been Socrates he and Xantippe might well have come to sad ends like unto those of the husband and wife in this picture.

For the man, driven to desperation by the vile temper and shrill nagging voice of his mate, kills her.

From then on he is a fugitive from the law, which ultimately catches up with him. . . . There's an unexpected and moving twist to the finale. . . .

This production was directed, photographed and written by three young people, two of whom play the leads. It's depicted against natural backgrounds. The story is a simple one and cleverness and good sense are shown in the natural manner of its unreeling. Because of this, and because the people and happenings are so real, there are moments when the suspense is terrific. And without injection of synthetic melodrama.

En flight Mark meets Jo, a girl thrill story writer, touring in her trailer. ["Caravan" she calls it.] She recognizes Mark—for his pictures have been widely published—but she says nothing, for she means to concoct a sensational novel ["I Met a Murderer"] based on her experiences with the fugitive. So she takes him under her wing. . . . AND falls in love with him. . . .

The picture—depressing but well worth your while—shall complete your knowledge of the story.

The acting is uniformly good. James Mason is most appealing as the murderer.

Settings and scenery of the English countryside have been photographed with rare beauty.

The astute young people behind this undertaking could teach Hollywood a thing or two, I'm thinking. For mints of money have been expended there on movies inferior to "I Met a Murderer."

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., April 20, Sunday—Did a piece on "Citizen Kane," and nothing much after that, except to read in a couple of books. One, Dixon Wecter's "The Hero in America," is that rare thing, a scholarly work that is immensely readable. Most able researchers can't write for sour grapes, but Wecter can. He covers all our national idols, from G. Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt, and of Rudolph Valentino he says "Maidens wept over him, as, in ancient days, they mourned the slain Adonis in the spring." . . . The other book, Bayard Veiller's "The Fun I've Had," is a pleasantly gabby autobiography.

Monday—To Warners', where Jack Oakie and Jack Haley are working on the back lot in "Navy Blues." There's a scene in which the two Jacks, on the prowl along a street, encounter a pretty girl—an extremely pretty one, Maris Wrixon. Oakie gives Haley a demonstration on how to do it. He drops a five spot at the lady's feet, picks it up and asks, "Did you drop this?" And when she says "No," he does some fast talk about a date later. She gives him a smile, a wink, and a card from her purse—supposedly a card with her telephone number. Between shots Miss Wrixon shows it to me, and actually it is a card stating, "Laurie May Creevy, Women's Peace, Purity, and Patriotism league." Just something out of the prop department. "Navy Blues" may be something new as comedy—for there isn't a straight man for Haley and Oakie. And it's crammed with pretty girls, headed by Ann Sheridan. . . . In the evening to see "Pepe Le Moko" for a look-see at 20th Century-Fox's new boy, Jean Gabin. He seems to be a slightly larger, pigeon-chested, Galic Jim Cagney. The picture, which has been around for years, is all right, but I didn't go into a faint over it as great art.

Tuesday—Hard at it in the morning, in order to make an afternoon preview of "Ziegfeld Girl," which is on the slow side. There are two details which seem to have escaped the researchers; the period is the early twenties. Lana Turner operates a store elevator with a handle which automatically closes the outer and inner doors—and I don't think elevators had those gadgets then. And mention is made of Butterfield 8 as a phone exchange. I think Butterfield is a comparatively recent exchange, and I'm certain there weren't any 8s, or whatever, prefixed to phone numbers in those days.

Wednesday—A day of desk work, and to R. K. O. in the evening to see "The Devil and Miss Jones," which is a good, warm comedy. It's Charles Coburn's picture, altho Jean Arthur has the star billing, and Charles didn't steal it. It was written that way, and I don't suppose many stars would be intelligent enough to let somebody else have a good part. Miss Arthur, one of this department's favorites, is plenty okay. . . . We are also shown some of the 60,000 feet of parachute battalion stuff a camera crew got at Fort Benning, Ga., and the way Uncle Sam's birdmen pour out of transports is a caution. A caution, I hope, to a certain party. . . . And we see Gloria Swanson's hat and hair tests—silent—for "Father Takes a Wife." There's a handsome woman! And the fans are going to be glad to have her back. She's got a wide-open spot as a comedienne.

Thursday—To Metro, where Clarence Brown is staging the evacuation of foreigners from Shanghai in advance of a Japanese air raid. Metro doesn't put up its red balloon any more when exteriors are being shot, having found that this stay away warning merely brings sightseers winging over. But, even without the balloon, somebody has found us—possibly a test pilot, maybe an army man, who circles endlessly in a two engined bomber. It's pretty to watch—but expensive. The pay of several hundred extras, as well as of such costly folk as Clark Gable, Rosalind Russell, and Clarence Brown, goes ticking along, and no work is getting done on account of the buzz of the motors. . . . In the evening to see "The Cowboy and the Lady," in which a handsome big guy named George Montgomery makes his debut. The picture, which kids movie making, is pretty funny—and Montgomery should be here to stay.

Friday—Deanna Durbin's wedding is the story—and it's a pleasant story because it's the kind of wedding girls must dream about and isn't Hollywood at all. There are few film stars among the 850 guests at the church. The whole thing has dignity and good taste, and Miss Durbin is very beautiful and the bridesmaids are knockouts, too.

Sarah Hyde's Debut May 14; Season's First

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS SARAH HYDE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde of Winnetka, will have the distinction of being the first debutante of the 1941-'42 season, for she is to be presented next month. Presented formally hardly describes the sort of debut Sally is to have, for her mother and father are going to introduce her to their many friends at two informal teas at their home in Church road. The first will be on Wednesday, May 14, and the second the next day.

Miss Hyde is a senior in the New Trier High school and next year she is going to Olivet college in Michigan, where she will specialize in music and art. Those who knew her well suspect that one reason she has chosen Olivet is because it is near a gliding field, for this talanted young woman is an enthusiastic glider and spends every Sunday at the Joliet field. She first became interested in this sport at Frankfort, Mich., which is near Crystal Lake, where the Hydes have a summer home.

Before the family moved to Winnetka several years ago Sally went to the Francis W. Parker school. Her father is one of the well known organists and choir leaders of the city. Mrs. Hyde returned several weeks ago from having spent the winter in Santa Fe, N. M., and Beverly Hills, Cal., with her only sister, Mrs. Clarence Woolley of New York, who was in poor health. Mrs. Woolley is well now, however, and passed thru Chicago last Friday on her way east from the Woolley ranch in New Mexico.

Jessie Jean Smith to Be Bride of Richard Bernays.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hensley Smith of Boulder, Colo., formerly of Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Jean, to Richard Bernays of Chicago. Young Mr. Bernays is the second son of Lewis Bernays, British consul general in Chicago, and the late Mrs. Bernays.

Both Miss Smith and her fiancé attended the Francis W. Parker school and were graduated from Northwestern university, she in 1940 and he two years earlier. Mr. Bernays was admitted to the Illinois bar three weeks ago after receiving his degree in January from the university's law school. Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to come east for their daughter's wedding, which will take place in June.

Ann Caroline Guylee Engaged to Milwaukeean.

At a breakfast, given yesterday in their home in Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Guylee announced the engagement of their daughter, Ann Caroline, to Willard Allen Batzle, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Batzle of Milwaukee. The party was given for Mrs. Leon E. Fuller Jr., a newcomer to Chicago.

Both Miss Guylee and Mr. Batzle were graduated from the University of Wisconsin, and she received her master's degree from Northwestern university. The wedding is planned for early June, and Mr. Batzle will take his bride to Milwaukee to live.

Ellis-Uihlein Wedding To Take Place May 3.

Miss Lucia Long Ellis and Edgar J. Uihlein Jr. have set Saturday, May 3, as their wedding date. The wedding will not take place in Chicago, however, to the disappointment of the bride's many friends here. The chapel on the Lees Summit, Mo., farm of Miss Ellis' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pryor Combs, will be the setting for the ceremony. The service will be read at 4 o'clock, with a reception following at the house.

Miss Jean Heiberg of Washington, D. C., where Miss Ellis' parents, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hayne Ellis, now make their home, will be the maid of honor. A recent bride, Mrs. Thomas E. Wells, the former Carolyn Chapman of Lake Forest, Miss Janet Schudy and Miss Carol Hagerman of Kansas City will be the bridesmaids.

Mr. Uihlein will have his father as

Jean Tait Weds Lieut. Gilson Next Saturday

Miss Jean Tait, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Tait of Racine, Wis., and Lieut. James Gilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gilson of Ridgewood, N. J., formerly of Evanston, will be married on Saturday in the Howes Memorial chapel at Northwestern university. A wedding supper at the Homestead hotel, Evanston, will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Warrington Gilson of Evanston and Miss Elizabeth Tait. Mrs. Gilson, Miss Tait, and the bride are sisters, and Mr. Gilson is a brother of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's parents and his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Warrington Heaps of Evanston, will entertain at a buffet dinner the night before the wedding. Lieut. Gilson, a graduate of Colgate university and an instructor in the United States army air corps at Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., is flying to Chicago for the wedding.

The engagement of Miss Jean Averill to Ralph Bourne Cougleton was announced on Saturday at the wedding of Miss Averill's sister, Nancy, and Theodore Anderson Pearse. Miss Averill is the daughter of Mrs. David Merrill Averill of Racine, Wis., and Mr. Cougleton is the son of Mrs. Lee Cougleton of Barbourville, Ky.

Miss Averill was graduated from Kemper hall and attended Bryn Mawr college before entering Northwestern university, where she will be graduated in June. Her fiancé, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, will receive his degree in June from the university's dental school.

The Rev. and Mrs. William E. Powers of Washington boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Maribel, to Lawrence P. Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanson of Lafin street. Dr. Powers is professor of theology and the philosophy of religion at the Northern Baptist Theological seminary.

SYNOPSIS.

Old Badey, postmaster and proprietor of the general store at Yellow Jacket, New Mexico, sees a letter come in addressed to Dave Coyle, notorious outlaw. Badey goes to Sheriff Beal who, realizing there is a $7,000 reward for Coyle's capture, decides to organize an armed force. Coyle comes to town for his letter, and diverts attention from the postoffice by leaving cartridges warming to explosion point in the blacksmith's forge, while he gets his letter. Then daringly he goes to the deserted hotel and selects a room for himself. His letter is from Carol McFee, but she has mixed her envelopes and Dave gets a letter intended for Will Usher in which Carol tells Usher she is warning Dave against him. In fear of the result of the mixup, Carol traces Dave to the hotel and explains to him that she had written him asking for help in driving off the Three Rivers outfit from their ranch. Wallace, head of the outfit, has forged a deed for the sale of the place with Sholto's name signed as witness. Her father is suing Wallace, but Wallace is bringing Sholto to the trial as witness. Usher calls on Dave proposing a truce and a partnership in kidnaping Sholto for ransom. Wallace will pay. Dave, thinking it will help McFee, agrees. Lacey Thornton, one time partner and now enemy of McFee, calls to interview McFee for his newspaper.

THREAT.

Lacey murmured as he wrote, "McFee is taking his trouble like a bear with a trap on each foot." He put his notes away and grinned and said, "Well, that covers it, I reckon—except for an expression of sympathy from the Clarion."

Carol said, "Sympathy?"

"Yes, Miss," Lacey drawled. "Sympathy. The Clarion extends sympathy to Mr. McFee," he said mockingly. "We are all sorry, terribly sorry, that my esteemed ex-partner is going to lose his money. We all hoped he'd lose his life instead."

With a growl of rage McFee started for Thornton. Maitland, McFee's lawyer, grabbed his arms and held him. Lacey Thornton didn't move. He only stood there, the light of the devil in his eyes.

"Man alive," he murmured. "I'd just as soon die next week. I've lived to see everything in this life I wanted to see." He snapped his fingers in McFee's face. "When you're broke, come around to the Clarion and I'll give you two bits for a drink. And I hope it'll choke you."

He laughed and walked into the dining room, not even looking back.

At that moment the lobby door swung open and Tate Wallace stepped inside. When he saw McFee he stopped dead.

He was a tall man, a pale-haired, bleached-eyed Texan with a long bony face and the easy, long-legged grace and spare movements of a man who has learned to be quick and swift-moving only in emergencies.

He paused in midstride as he saw the three of them, and then he turned and called over his shoulder, "Hide Sholto, boys. Here's McFee!"

There was a small commotion outside the door and Beal stepped thru, his gun drawn. He had the air of a courteous watchdog as he gallantly doffed his hat to Carol and pointed the gun at them with the other hand.

McFee spat contemptuously in Wallace's direction and stalked on thru the lobby into the dining room, Maitland, with Carol, following. There was a gleam of inner amusement in Wallace's eye as they retreated, and then it vanished and his face was sober as he turned to Beal. "Much obliged, sheriff. He looked pretty salty."

"Don't you worry none, Tate. We'll take care of you," Beal said in his professionally hearty voice.

Once inside the dining room McFee, Carol, and Senator Maitland took a table for three by the window and ordered their meal. Before it was served the posse filed into the dining room and sat at the long table provided for them in the center of the room. Sholto was ostentatiously seated in a chair where he was hidden, save for his head, by the bodies of the posse members.

Carol and McFee, since this was the first time they had seen the man who was supposed to have witnessed the signing of the famous deed, stared at him. It was this man who held their fate in his hands, for without him to swear he had witnessed the transaction, Maitland could prove that any child could forge McFee's signature. Carol's first thought was that he looked angry. He was thin, gaunt-cheeked, burned to a saddle color except for his forehead, which had a band of lighter flesh beneath the hairline where his hat had shaded him. Against her will she liked his face. It was melancholy, reserved, almost austere, and for one fleeting moment Carol wondered if her father had signed the deed and forgotten it. This man Sholto didn't look like a professional liar.

Sheriff Beal sat on Sholto's right and he kept his eyes on McFee. The old boy wouldn't give him any trouble, he knew, but it wouldn't hurt to pretend he would. He was still watching McFee and Maitland, almost glaring at them, when a man stepped in between his chair and Tate Wallace's, who was seated on his right. It was Ernie See, his plain face preoccupied.

"Harve, I just run into somethin' funny. You remember old man Badey's horse that was reported stole out of the feed corral this morning in Yellow Jacket?"

Beal nodded, knowing in his bones what was coming.

"Well, I just seen him in the corral down the street."

He and Beal looked at each other a long, quiet moment, and then Tate Wallace, who had overheard Ernie, said, "Here? In Sabinal?"

Again Ernie nodded. Wallace put it into words, drawling angrily, "Well, Sheriff, it only goes to prove what I been tryin' to tell you. Box 73 at Wagon Mound is Bruce McFee's box. McFee and Dave Coyle was in Yellow Jacket last night. Dave Coyle never owned a horse in his life. He steals them whenever he wants to move. A horse is stole in Yellow Jacket this mornin' and it turns up in Sabinal this noon."

Sheriff Beal murmured, "Goodlemighty," and groaned.

Tate Wallace shoved his chair back and stood up and walked around to the table to face McFee. Sheriff Beal was at his heels, watching him anxiously.

"So you've throwed in with an outlaw now, have you, McFee?" Wallace demanded.

McFee's surprise was greater than his anger as he came to his feet. "What outlaw?"

"Dave Coyle. He's in town."

"What's that got to do with me?"

"You wrote him to meet you in Yellow Jacket!" Wallace said hotly. "You talked to him last night!"

Maitland said sternly, "Watch your language, Wallace, or I'll slap a libel suit on you to boot!"

McFee didn't even hear his lawyer. He said angrily to Wallace, "You're a liar on two counts!" His napkin was balled up in his fist.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," Senator Maitland said. "Remember where we are."

"I'm tellin' you somethin', McFee," Wallace said savagely. "You're travelin' on the same train as we are this afternoon! We're takin' Sholto in the baggage car! And if I lay my eyes on you or Coyle in that baggage car I'll gun you like the double-crossin' dog you are!"

McFee hit him. He moved quickly, hotly, and there was a lot of solid weight behind the blow. Wallace cakewalked backwards off balance until he was brought up against a chair, and then he sat down abruptly on the floor. For a half second he was immobile, and then his hand streaked for his gun. Sheriff Beal dived at him and so did the man in the chair beside him. They caught him just as the gun was clearing leather, and there was a swift moment of grunting and wrestling, and finally Beal rose with the gun.

Wallace came swiftly to his feet. His face was pale with anger, and little lights danced wickedly in his bleached eyes. There was no inner amusement in them this time as he glared at McFee. His rawhiding had turned on him and he didn't like it. He said softly, "I'll ruin you for that, McFee! And if I don't ruin you, I'll kill you!"

He turned and stalked out of the dining room and Beal followed him out. The members of the Three Rivers crew closest to their boss got up and followed Beal.

McFee, under the disturbed gaze of Carol and Maitland, who had said nothing during the fight, sat down and picked up his fork. He stabbed at some food and then slammed the fork down. He was murdering mad, and there was no use trying to hide it.

"Eat, papa," Carol said weakly.

"Eat, hell!" McFee roared. "I'm goin' up and get a gun and kill that curly wolf!"

The whole dining room heard him. He got out of his chair so abruptly that he tipped over the water pitcher and stalked out of the dining room, Carol and Maitland, a worried look on his face, followed him up the stairs. Already a pair of deputy marshals stood undecided in the door to the dining room watching them. Lacey Thornton stood beside them, laughing.

In the room Carol grabbed hold of her father's shirt and beat his chest with her small fists. Maitland stood between McFee and the gun on the dresser.

"Dad! Dad! They'll murder you!" Carol cried. "Think a minute! Think!"

"I've thought too long!" McFee growled. "I'm goin' to get it over with."

"And what will happen to Carol, Bruce?" Maitland said gently. "Think of that, if you won't about killing a man."

GASOLINE ALLEY—IT'S A SMALL WORLD

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Double Trouble

New Romance Best Cure if Old Is Lost

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

She asked him if he'd love her when she's 40 as he loves her now at 20. He told her he'd love her when she's 100 and probably more even than now. But that didn't persuade her to take him on for life. She gave him encouragement until she went out west on a visit, and there met a young man who won her promise to wait a year. Then he'd be better able to provide a home.

And now "he," the young man who promised loyalty until 100, can't sleep, can't eat, can't forget her, altho he admits to trying every means of forgetfulness. So reduced in health and weight and energy the poor chap has become, he has to give up his job and take a vacation. He was threatened by his employer that if he didn't pick up quickly and perform his duties as before, there'd be another name on the unemployment list.

"How can I get her back? I've got to get her back! Otherwise, I can't go on living. I'll have to do away with myself," he says.

When man or girl reports to us that "doing away" is in their minds, we conclude that it is that very weakness in character that brought them to their current state of travail. It is mighty cowardly of an individual to entertain the thought of self-destruction. Granted, it is a grief to have one's beloved taken right out from under one's nose, but compared to griefs and sorrows with which others have been tried and come thru magnificently, it seems a pretty shoddy thought or planned escape.

What burns so often isn't the actual loss of the girl, but the fact that some other fellow won her. That's what men go down under. But is it being a man not to face it and say the better man won? Is it fair to blame life for shortcomings that undoubtedly are one's own?

No, son, we'd suggest you swing quickly into another girl interest as the sure fire cure for what ails you.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

This is Chicago Youth week. Its laudable purpose—and slogan—is to "Help Youth to Help Itself."

At a meeting held in advance of Youth week to discuss recommendations to youth for getting, holding, and progressing on a job we heard some interesting views on the value of a good appearance.

General trimness is one of the big things. Bosses like girls to look unobtrusively attractive, with dresses of simple lines. They are opposed, almost to a man, to three details of grooming.

One, tho men aren't able to define it in so many words, is a mess of sausage curls. They just say that a girl's hair looks frowsy; the feminine personnel managers know instantly that that impression is created because instead of being brushed smooth and simply arranged the hair is too coyly done up in a raft of little curls and waves. It should be shiny, smooth, and simply arranged.

Second: The male prejudice against scarlet finger nails may be broken down where wives and sweethearts and relations are concerned, but the average man hiring a girl for a job counts the use of deep nail polish as a detriment. Don't ask us why, it's just so!

Third: Bosses look askance at the girl who goes job hunting in an ensemble that's replete with feminine frills. They loathe ruffled dresses, swing skirts, sheer blouses, and an aura of perfume. At least they loathe them around a business establishment, which should be warning enough for any girl looking for a job!

best man, and ushering will be a cousin, Edwin A. Seipp Jr.; John Haubers of Everett, Wash., and Long Ellis, brother of the bride, of Washington, D. C. Mr. Uihlein and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

Dorothy Vicaji, the English portrait painter who has been in Palm Beach, Fla., this winter, will be a guest of Mrs. Edward Morris tomorrow when Mrs. Morris opens her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive for a sale of the beautiful things made by the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. In addition to the Shut-Ins goods there will be lots of unusual flower arrangements done by a north side florist for sale.

In addition to the Vocational board members, those who will be assisting Mrs. Morris with the sale are Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Harold Gifford, Mrs. Donald MacMurray, Mrs. Paul Skinner, and Mrs. Frank Miller. Mrs. Morris plans to serve tea to both the shoppers and the assistants. The sale will be in progress all day.

Infant Welfare Auxiliary to Have Luncheon Today.

The annual luncheon of the Woman's auxiliary of the Chicago Infant Welfare society will crowd the Racquet club's dining room at 12:30 o'clock today.

A program for the benefit of the schools' scholarship fund will draw a large audience to the Harris schools at 8:15 o'clock this evening. Florence Bourke Ellis will give a current events talk, followed by a review of Kenneth Roberts' "Oliver Wiswell." Mrs. Harold M. Ross, chairman of the benefit, is assisted by Mrs. Stephan Paddock, Mrs. Paul Gerhardt, Mrs. G. W. Blaha, Mrs. Robert Maxon, Mrs. Scott Dow, and Mrs. Clement Studebaker.

To St. Mary's Home for Children will go the proceeds from a card party, tea, and fashion show this afternoon at the Drake hotel. Mrs. John A. Wheeler and Mrs. George W. Traver are co-chairmen of the benefit, at which some professional dancers will demonstrate the latest steps.

Knox School Alumnae Luncheon to Be Tomorrow.

Chicago alumnae of the Knox school at Cooperstown, N. Y., will gather for luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the Arts club and welcome Mrs. Alexander Phinney, assistant headmistress of the school. Miss Mary Faherty is in charge of arrangements.

Luncheon and tea will be served at the annual spring sale of the Women's Guild of Christ church, Winnetka, next Saturday. The sale, called "Along a Garden Walk," will be held in the parish house. Everything will be there to make a house look fresh and springlike, according to rhymed invitations the guild has mailed. There will be linens, doilies, plants in pots, garden gadgets, and many other items. The sale usually is held on Easter Saturday, but was postponed this year because so many guild members were away.

Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, who with Mr. McCormick has been at the Drake since they arrived from the west a short time ago, has gone to New York for a week's visit. The McCormicks do not plan to open their Rush street house this spring.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

April 21, 1941.

Universal day—Put your house in order, or bring your filing up to date at the office.

If you were born on the 8th, 17th, or 26th of any month and you are in the middle period of life—from about 26 to 56 years of age, that is—then your life takes on the emphasis of eight for this period. You feel like expanding your interests and are interested in making money, investing, and building up personal power. You have to be careful that you don't put too much emphasis on the material side of life because this is a powerful number which calls for wise judgment, or it can turn the negative side and make you conscious of financial lack, bring the irritation of debts, and make you too egotistical or too headstrong. Those attaining to executive positions during this middle period of life will be expressing this number eight in the best way.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1941 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

At most family dinner tables meat makes the meal. The smaller cuts which don't take the long cooking time of a roast are sought after by the busy woman. Pork chops, lamb loin chops, and tender steaks are her most frequent choices, simply because they are most familiar and because she has learned to cook them well.

But there are dozens of other small cuts worthly of her time and money. Some of them are inexpensive, too. Here are a few small cuts which may be cooked in an hour's time or less, all of which make savory, healthful dishes.

VEAL KIDNEY CHOPS—These are elegant chops cut from the rib end of the loin. They contain a part of the kidney. Cook them by braising. First dip in seasoned flour, then brown in hot fat, cover, and cook at a low temperature until tender. Sour cream may be added if desired. If temperature is kept low it isn't necessary to add any liquid.

VEAL ROSETTES—Bacon wrapped and skewered pieces of meat from the veal round; these are cooked by braising.

CITY CHICKEN—Cubes of veal shoulder meat strung on skewers, braised like veal chops and steaks.

LAMB NECK SLICES—These are an economy cut. Buy a double slice for each serving. Braise them. A pinch of thyme, whiff of garlic, and a teaspoonful or so of lemon juice will add flavor, but aren't necessary.

LAMB PATTIES—There are made of ground lamb, wrapped in bacon slices, and may be braised or broiled.

SARATOGA LAMB CHOPS—Neat, skewered cuts from the lamb shoulder, these chops are cooked in the broiling oven. Try spreading the hot broiled chops with a Roquefort cheese paste. Make the paste by mashing the cheese and mixing it with cream.

OTHER LAMB CHOPS—Try, as a change from rib and loin chops, arm chops, blade chops, boneless shoulder chops, English lamb chops. English chops are nice for company. They're double loin chops, handsome and generous in proportions.

PORK TENDERLOIN PATTIES—Braise them.

CANADIAN STYLE BACON—This is smoked, boneless loin, and it may be broiled or braised, as you'd prepare ham. Thin slices may be fried or frizzled; thick slices are best broiled or braised.

Two Flattering Dresses

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

Considering as they do the style problems of the larger figure, these two dresses are uncommonly attractive. At the left, a shirtwaist model with casual shoulderline, deftly flared skirt, and buttons all the way down the front. This is an indispensable summer style. Right, a dressier version of the same lines, a collarless frock which makes up beautifully in delicate prints.

Monogram No. 11206, available for 10 cents extra, is a fashionable spring note.

Style No. 2828 is designed for size 16 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52 inch bust measurements.

Style No. 3283 is designed for size 16 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Art Institute Janitors Open Their Exhibition

BY MARCIA WINN.

If the school of the Art institute of Chicago is a little dusty today it will be because the school janitors took a few hours off from their work Saturday to tack their souls up on the walls.

And if their souls, which presumably may be read into the 50 or more oils, watercolors and drawings which went on exhibition at the school yesterday, do not reflect a touch of Leonardo da Vinci, Botticelli, Pietro Perugino, Michelangelo, or Titian, it is not because these gentlemen and the janitors did not have the same background for their art: all swept the floors of other artists' studios.

The school of the institute is cleaned now, as it has been for years past, by a select group of its students. From 12 to 30 hours a week they ply broom to floor, brush to wall, rag to furniture. In their spare time they ply brush or rag to canvas or paper. The results of their leisure time activity may be seen in the seventh annual janitors' art show, which, with its emblem of two brooms crossed over a mop, will be on display two weeks.

As head janitor of the 24 boys who clean what is known as the upper school, that section west of the Illinois Central tracks, Keith Aulik, who is 22 and debonair in a battered felt hat, is a proud impresario of the show. Many a janitor boy, he says with happy authority, has won one of the school's traveling fellowships to Europe. Out of the current show he expects at least one winner.

He believes his own week is fairly typical of the 24. He starts work at 6:30 in the morning, works until 8:30 or 9, works an hour at noon, two more at night, and all day Saturday. In between he studies art at the school and does photography on the side. Yet he managed to whip out two fine drawings, five photographs, and a colcred lithograph of his father's Wisconsin farm [done with the aid of Joseph Zulawski, a fellow janitor] in his spare time for the janitors' show.

The finest piece of work in the show, Keith believes, is a self portrait of Rufina Silva, a young Puerto Rican who is being called in the draft. "He knows all about oils," Keith said, displaying Silva's sensitive oil with awe, "but he simply can't understand the draft."

One boy, Peter Bell, who has many excellent line drawings in the show, has a superior classification among the janitors. He takes care of the school storeroom, ships out exhibits and has the annual job of hanging the mile of pictures at the Navy Pier art show. Another student, Ernest Lewicki of Winnipeg, cleans the photographic department. One day while plying his brush and mop he contorted his face into Mephistophelian cunning and was so pleased that he photographed himself; the result is in the show.

Al Rudis, another janitor, found his work left him little time to shave and so grew a biblical beard. This made him so popular as an artist's model that he was forced to quit school a week ago to fill his modeling engagements. However, he is in the show, beard and all, in a photographic study inexplicably entitled "Wolf."

Boys Leave Friday to Spend Week-end at Adventure Camp

The Chicago Outdoor league's 1941 "adventure camp" season will be opened next Friday when a group of boys from the Chase House settlement at 211 South Ashland avenue leave for a week-end at the farm of Dr. Melford E. Zinser at Lake Delavan, Wis.

The league's purpose is to make camping expeditions available to Chicago boys and girls who might otherwise be denied an opportunity to enjoy outdoor life. Chicagoans with farms suitable for camp sites are being urged to coöperate in the work.

Open Parent-Teacher State Convention in Belleville Tomorrow

The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will open its 42d annual convention tomorrow in Belleville. Two thousand delegates, representing the membership of 176,000 are expected to attend the three day meeting.

The convention sessions will be preceded by a dinner tonight for members of the board of managers, followed by a board meeting. Mrs. F. Russell Lyon of Chicago, state president, will preside at this as at all general sessions.

Honor Students Will Be Guests at Citizen Hour

Ninety-two honor students from 42 Chicago high schools, three junior colleges and the Chicago Teachers' college will be special guests of the Chicago Tribune's Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N.

At 4:30 p. m. these guests and 450 students from Amundsen High, the honor school this week, will join in the program, which will be recorded in W-G-N's main studio. The broadcast will be made in transcribed form in the evening. The 92 students are those who have received civic awards from the Executives' club of Chicago. Their attendance will be in connection with the observance of Youth week, which begins today.

L. Day Perry, principal of the Amundsen High school, will speak, and the school choir, directed by Joanne Stefanik, will sing. Among special guests will be Maj. John L. Griffith, athletics commissioner of the Big Ten conference; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical and health education of the public schools and secretary of the Youth week observance, and Mrs. John H. Harrison of Evanston, a former newspaper woman.

CUBS FIGHT 10 INNINGS TO DEFEAT CARDS, 11-10

NEW ENGLAND SYNDICATE BUYS CONTROL OF BEES

PAYS REPORTED $350,000 TO GET ADAMS' STOCK

Deal Severs Tieup in Racing, Baseball.

Boston, Mass., April 20 (AP).—Bob Quinn, president of the Bees, tonight announced that a New England syndicate, including himself, had purchased C. F. Adams' controlling interest in the Boston National league baseball club, which represents about 73 per cent of the stock. The deal ended a five months' campaign to find a new group of owners.

Bob Quinn.

Quinn said all except two of his new associates were New Englanders, the exceptions being Casey Stengel, the club's manager, and his intimate friend, Max Mayer, Brooklyn pearl manufacturer.

The others are Francis Ouimet of Boston, former National Open and amateur golf champion; Joseph Conway, president of a Boston sporting goods firm; Dr. William Wrang of Middletown, Conn.; J. W. Powdrell, a Danielson, Conn., manufacturer; Richard Hevessy, head of a Boston automobile firm; Frank McCourt of Boston, C. Joseph Maney of Somerville, Louis Perini of Framingham, and Guido Rugo of Milton. The latter four are engaged in the contracting business.

Once Again Home Owned.

"It looks like a splendid setup and I am delighted to be associated with such substantial men who have such a keen love for baseball," Quinn said. "We could have taken in many others and probably will have at least two more in our ranks within the next few days. During our negotiations, Mr. Adams was extremely sympathetic and displayed great patience.

"I am proud to announce that the Boston National league franchise is almost entirely New England owned for the second time since it became a charter member of the National league in 1876. It has not had home ownership since the presidency of Arthur H. Soden in 1906."

Quinn refused to divulge the price the syndicate paid for Adams' controling interests. However, it has frequently been mentioned that the latter's price was around $350,000.

New Working Capital Available.

In addition to putting up enough funds to pay Adams in cash, Quinn said the members of the syndicate also would provide the club with new working capital. Recently Johnny Cooney, the club's veteran player-coach, sought membership in the syndicate.

"Johnny wanted to come in with us and had his money up," Quinn explained. "We would have been glad to have him with us, but for a suggestion by an outsider that an embarrassing situation could be caused by a player with a financial interest in a club."

Quinn refused to name the outsider, believed to be President Ford Frick of the National league. Regarding Frick's participation in the deal, Quinn said, "We completed it with Mr. Adams without any outside assistance."

Becomes President in 1935.

Quinn became president of the then Braves in 1935, after Adams, then a minority stockholder, had taken over the majority holdings of Emil Fuchs for nonpayment of loans.

At that time Adams was about to open Suffolk Downs race track in East Boston and Commissioner K. M. Landis served notice on him that he must retire from horse racing or sell out his baseball interests. Adams chose to do the latter.

DERBY STOCK OF PORTER'S CAP AND OUR BOOTS SOARS

Dispose Loses Prestige in Jamaica Performance.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., April 20.—Two prominent Kentucky Derby candidates, Porter's Cap and Our Boots, increased their prestige substantially by the manner in which they won, respectively, in the mile and a sixteenth Chesapeake stakes at Havre De Grace and the six furlong Elmendorf purse at Keeneland yesterday. Another contender, Dispose, lost quite a bit of his followers' regard by his lackadaisical performance in finishing last to Mettlesome in the six furlong Experimental handicap at Jamaica after going to the post at a little better than 3 to 5.

A Derby dark horse, Robert Morris, emerged in the east by beating a field of older campaigners in the mile and a sixteenth Exceisior handicap. Little Beans did about as well as might have been expected in running second to Porter's Cap in the Chesapeake, beaten by a margin of two and a half lengths. Nor was it particularly surprising that Curious Coin got so far behind the fast early pace which developed in the Experimental that he was unable to make an effective move in the stretch.

Blue Pair Performs Well.

Blue Pair, racing against a field of older horses in the mile and a sixteenth Ben All handicap at Keeneland, gave a good account of himself in finishing third to Red Dock after encountering interference at several stages of the route.

Further data on the prospects of the various candidates will be supplied in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland on Thursday and in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica on Saturday. After that, the horses will begin converging on Churchill Downs, where the Derby trial will be run on Tuesday of next week. These constitute the main tests remaining before the 67th running of the Kentucky Derby a week from next Saturday.

Porter's Cap Will Be Ready.

Porter's Cap, making his first start since the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, indicated that Trainer Tom Smith is going to have him in perfect condition on Derby day. Much of the so-called Charles S. Howard luck may be attributed to Smith's genius for pointing a horse for a big event and getting him up to it just in time. At no stage of the Chesapeake stakes was Porter's Cap extended. He covered the mile and a sixteenth in the creditable time of 1:45 1-5. The track was fast, but if there is mud on Derby day he'll like it even better since his most notable victories—the Washington Park Futurity and the Santa Anita Derby—were scored in wet footing.

Races Four Times as Juvenile.

In winning the Elmendorf at Keeneland, Our Boots put on what superficially appeared to be an amazing finish. In the last few yards he passed My Bill and Smacked as tho they had been tied to the rail and he had pulled out to a lead of a length as he crossed the finish. But those were two very, very tired horses he was passing. They had hooked up for a head and head duel that had burned nearly every bit of energy out of them by the time they hit the last sixteenth. Even that circumstance, however, didn't take away the fact that Our Boots delivered a splendid performance and continued to run easily as he went out an extra two furlongs beyond the finish to complete the mile in 1:39.

Robert Morris, whose Derby prospects brightened by his performance at Jamaica, raced only four times as a juvenile. He won a maiden race, then finished second and third in his next two starts in allowance events. After running fourth to Chicuelo in the Tremont stakes at Aqueduct last June, he was retired for the season and didn't get to the post again until last Monday, when he won an allowance event at Jamaica. He was helped by a light impost—100 pounds—in his victory yesterday.

Lilac Bloom.

You loved the fragrance of the lilac bloom;
It almost seemed to be a part of you;
Bright lilac blossoms filled your little room
And cheered you with their sunny purple hue;
You gave a twig to every one you met,
A lavender bouquet that each might wear;
And we who knew you never can forget
The gorgeous blossoms that adorned your hair.

I hate to see the lilac fade and die
Because they hold such tender memories
Of the dear long ago when you were nigh
Scattering lilac perfume on the breeze;
For while I still behold their purple cheer
I somehow feel your spirit must be near.

SOX AND BROWNS YIELD TO ANTICS OF WEATHER MAN

Chicagoans Open Series in Detroit Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

James Dykes' White Sox, and the St. Louis Browns as well, were all dressed up yesterday for the season's first Sunday combat in Comiskey park, but getting into uniform proved a waste of effort.

At 1 o'clock the temperature suffered a pronounced drop and the weather man issued a bulletin indicating rain. Thus the whole matter was abandoned until some future date.

The Browns then departed for Cleveland and the Sox went away to Detroit, where today they'll open a three game series with the champion Tigers, weather permitting. After disposing of that three day visit, the Sox will bounce back into their own park for a two game set with the Indians. Cleveland may turn loose both Al Smith and Al Milnar in the expectation the two southpaws may duplicate the shutout jobs they plastered on Dykes' boys last week.

It's Dietrich for Sox Today.

Eddie Smith was in line for yesterday's pitching assignment, but he's not included in Dykes' plans for this afternoon. The chore will be entrusted to Bill Dietrich, partly because Bill looked good in beating Bob Feller in the season's opener last Tuesday, but mainly because he is a right hander. The Tigers are not especially fearful of southpaws, what with Hank Greenberg and Rudy York, their home run twins, being right handed swingers.

However, Smith may be started in the second of the series tomorrow, Dykes' supply of right handers being limited unless he dips into his batch of newcomers such as Jack Hallett, John Humphries, and Orval Grove. Ted Lyons won't be available again until he has had his customary week of rest.

Sox Face Buck Newsom.

If the Sox capture a favorable decision this afternoon, it will be at the expense of the celebrated Buck Newsom, who lost his opening day start but continues to talk of winning at least 20 times before the season closes. The garrulous Buck may revise his figures downward now that Greenberg's helpful home run bat is likely to be taken into camp by Uncle Sam's draft board.

John Rigney, star Sox right hander who is getting back into shape gradually after suffering from a throat infection, will continue his individual training here while his mates are in Detroit. Taft Wright, the regular right fielder, also an invalid as the result of a second attack of influenza, will be discharged from the hospital tomorrow but will not be permitted to exercise for another week. By the second week of May he may be ready to take over his job.

ACT TODAY ON MORE DAYLIGHT!

The city council judiciary committee meets this afternoon to consider the question of giving Chicago the added advantage of an extra hour of daylight in October.

Ald. John J. Duffy [19th], sponsor of the proposal to extend daylight saving time one month, urges that all sports fans who want the advantage of that extra daylight hour contact a member of the committee, if they have not already done so.

"A telephone call to the alderman's home, or to his office at the city hall, Randolph 8000," will be effective," Ald. Duffy said. Telegrams sent to the aldermen at the city hall this morning also would impress upon them the voters' desires.

BILL NICHOLSON SCORES WINNING RUN AFTER FLY

Pressnell Credited with 1st Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—The Cubs this afternoon won a sterling and startling fortitude fiesta from the St. Louis Cardinals, 11 to 10, in 10 innings to sweep the two game series, their third National league success in four games this season.

There were heroes all over the place, both defensively and offensively. Outstanding among the former were Larry French, immediate successor to Claude Passeau, who disappeared during a six run Cardinal blast in the third inning, and Tot Pressnell, the winning pitcher who was masterful in adversity he seemingly had invited himself. Two great catches by Dom Dallessandro and Lou Novikoff were victory factors, too.

The Cubs, who were retired in the ninth with the bases filled after McCullough had reached first with none out, wasted little time putting across the decisive run in the 10th. Bill Nicholson walked, went to third on Glen Russell's single after Novikoff popped out, and came home on Clyde McCullough's long fly.

'Twas an Uphill Fight.

Most of the boys had a part in overcoming St. Louis leads of 1 to 0, then 7 to 2, and finally 10 to 7. All these advantages were built up by the Cardinals thru Cub misadventures of one sort or another, among them three errors by Lou Stringer. He later came back with two great plays that kept the Cubs in the competition.

The Cubs were guilty of 13 strikeouts, but that undoubtedly was because they were taking ferocious cuts against a parade of pitchers which included Max Lanier, who beat the Cubs for five of his nine victories last season; Morton Cooper, Sam Nahem, Ernie White, the loser, and John Grodzicki.

Scan if you please these hitting accomplishments: Stan Hack hit his first 1941 homer and two singles, and walked three times.

Stringer had a single and a double, Dallessandro had a double and a single to drive in three runs.

Nicholson Keeps Up Pace.

Nicholson knocked his third homer and walked twice.

Novikoff started the Cubs' five run fourth with a double.

Russell, tho he fanned three times was a big success man with a vital double and single.

McCullough worked another great, hustling game behind the plate, knocked a homer and a single, and walked twice.

Bill Myers played a steady game at shortstop and had a part in two scoring flurries.

The first of Stringer's errors was responsible for the run with which the Cards took the lead in the first inning. It was a two base throwing error on Jimmy Brown's grounder. Terry Moore promptly followed up

WORLD DISCUS MARK IN SIGHT FOR HOOSIER STAR

Archie Harris Determined to Win Recognition.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lawrence, Kas., April 20.—When Archie Harris, giant weight man on the Indiana university track squad, tossed the discus 171 feet 6¾ inches yesterday afternoon for a record in the Kansas relays, he offered proof for his assertion a few days ago that he expected to break the world mark this spring. That goal is 174 feet 2½ inches. The record was made in 1935 by Willi Schroder of Germany.

The discus throw, which probably is the oldest of the field competitions now grouped in the Olympic games and which goes back to ancient Greece, combines dexterity and strength. It has been immortalized by Praxiteles. Quite likely Harris isn't particularly concerned with the poetry of motion portrayed in ancient art, altho with modern spirit he has determined to win world recognition.

Dates Back to Big 10 Meet.

That determination dates back to the Western conference track meet last spring in Dyche stadium when Harris broke the one year record of Michigan's Bill Watson. Watson, something of a hero to Harris who entered Indiana two years after Watson had matriculated at Michigan, finally had succeeded in bettering the Big Ten all-time record of Wisconsin's Arlie Mucks with a throw of 160 feet 10⅝ inches. Considering the length of time Mucks had held the championship—more than a score of years—it seemed logical to assume that Watson's record would remain on the books for a long time. When Harris succeeded in raising the mark last May the achievement fired his ambition. He followed with a national collegiate discus championship in the meet in Minneapolis in which he defeated Jack Hughes of Texas, who previously had whipped him in the Drake relays discus throw.

Harris may get the perfect throw which will give him the world record at any time. The American record of 173 feet, made by Ken Carpenter of Southern California in 1936, also is sought by Harris.

Shows Decline in Shot Put.

Having set his mind to perfection in the discus, Harris has shown a corresponding decline in the shot put in which event he will be the defending champion in the Western conference outdoor meet. Harris won the Big Ten title a year ago with a toss of 51 feet 5½ inches, which is mediocre from the viewpoint of the world record of 57 feet 1 inch established by Jack Torrance in 1934 and the current extraordinary performances of Al Blozis of Georgetown university.

Harris complacently lost his indoor Big Ten shot put title to George Paskvan of Wisconsin, and as readily surrendered first place in this event yesterday to Bob Beierle, a teammate of Paskvan, who surprised track fans by his toss of 49 feet 4¼ inches. It may be that Harris will not even salvage third place in the shot put for Indiana in the Big Ten meet. These points may be needed badly if the Hoosiers are to end Michigan's outdoor track domination as they already have stopped the Wolverines indoors.

Piker's Reign Threatened.

Yesterday's race under unfavorable weather conditions is no accurate measure of what will happen a month from now in the Big Ten 100 yard sprint. Handicapped by lack of outdoor training it was anticipated that Northwestern's Myron Piker scarcely could retain his Kansas relays sprint title. That he would finish sixth in the wind-blown race won by Carlton Terry of Texas in 9.4 seconds may herald the beginning of the end of Piker's conference reign.

His defeat by George Franck of Minnesota in the 60 yard Big Ten indoor race was his first defeat in a conference championship test.

Piker appeared in excellent condition in the Illinois relays, but suffered a leg injury in a lunging finish in the conference indoor meet at Purdue. It is probable that the 100 yard race Saturday in the Drake relays will furnish more accurate evidence for a forecast.

SMILIN' JACK—HANDICAP RACE

Sportsman's Racing Chiefs to Meet Today

Sportsman's park, where Chicago's long 1941 racing season will both open and finish, will get its final polishing early this week in preparation for its 19 day meeting starting Saturday.

Sportsman and racing officials will meet this morning to make final plans. The track will be represented by John L. Keeshin, president; Charles W. Bidwell, chairman of the board, and William Johnson, general manager.

Meeting Ends May 17.

The racing officials are Pat Galliger, steward and racing secretary; Bob McAuliffe and W. J. Shelley, placing judges; Boots Dickerson, starter; J. J. Graddy, steward, and Julius Reeder, placing judge and clerk of the scales. The secretary's office is open for registrations.

The meeting at the Cicero track will close on May 17 and two days later, the horses will start running at Lincoln Fields. Sportsman's fall meeting closes the Chicago season.

Feature Enlists 4 Year Olds.

Feature event Saturday will be the Hawthorne handicap, a 7 furlong sprint for 4 year olds and up. Among those which will run are Weisenheimer, winner of five straight races at Sportsman's last fall; the Stroube stable's Exarch, the Hilltop Stock farm's Ballinderry, Knee Deep, Wrinkle, and Dusky Duke.

General Manager Johnson said yesterday that post time for the first race will be 2:15 daily. This is later than starting time in the fall when the shorter days and standard time forced an earlier hour in order to run eight races before dark. The daily double will be continued with winners of the first and second races being coupled.

Illinois Tech Crew Winner of Dinghy Title

Skipper Bill Parks, with Jack Kasman as crew, won the single race sailed in Grant park harbor yesterday for the intercollegiate dinghy championship of the midwest. The rest of the races were called off due to the strong wind. Sailing for the Illinois Institute of Technology, Parks and Kasman led with 6¼ points. Two University of Chicago Yacht club members, Richard Philbrick and George Mead, were runners up with 5 points.

The University of Michigan Sailing club's crew, William Lapworth and John Reiger, were third with 4 points. Illinois Tech and the new Northwestern University Yacht club are expected to send crews to the national intercollegiate regatta at Boston, Mass., next Sunday. The University of Michigan Sailing club, according to its commodore, Ray Jones, will send crews.

Two crews in yesterday's race did not finish, and the other was disqualified. A gusty offshore wind, estimated at 40 miles per hour, dismasted the University of Wisconsin's entry and swamped the Chicago Teachers college crew. The Northwestern crew was disqualified for hitting a buoy.

1,600 to See Seward Meet Dubs Tonight

A capacity crowd of 1,600 is expected to pack Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight to learn whether Billy Seward, hard fighting lightweight from Ingomar, Mont., is the boxer he is supposed to be. Seward, who has scored 30 victories in 34 starts, 24 by knockouts, will meet Harvey Dubs, Windsor, Ont., in an eight round bout heading the show.

Dubs is the best fighter Seward has been asked to face during a two year campaign. He possesses sufficient skill and punching power to give Seward a difficult time of it.

Eu Eulien is the only rival both have met. Seward sent Eulien to the canvas for the count in the second round in the Marigold arena July 31, 1939. Dubs also was successful against Eulien. He defeated Eulien twice, beating him in four rounds last Nov. 4 and then scored a seven round technical knockout over him a month later. Supporting matches:

Sammy Secreet vs. Tito Taylor [8], 152.
Paul Frazier vs. Al Reiss [4], heavyweights.
Tommy Campbell vs. Johnny Williams [4], 150.
Eddie Miller vs. Andy Canal [4], 130.

Karol Krauser is matched with Fritz Von Schacht, and the Swedish Angel with Pete Schu in wrestling bouts in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. . . . The Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois will conduct a meeting tonight in the Midland hotel at which the annual dance the organization is sponsoring May 3 will be discussed. . . . Steve Mamakos will earn a fight with Johnny Colan, New York middleweight, in Chicago Stadium May 16 if he beats Ernie Vigh in Washington April 30. In case Vigh wins, Ossie Harris, recent winner over Nate Bolden, will be sought to oppose him on the program, which is topped by Davey Day and Quentin (Babe) Breese. Matchmaker John (Scotty) Strachan also is negotiating for the services of Nathan Mann, New Haven, Conn., heavyweight, against Booker Beckwith in an additional contest of 10 rounds. Beckwith meets Lee Oma in Hammond Friday.

Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight champion expects to oppose Selman Martin in Minneapolis Friday. He also may clash with Lee Q. Murray in Philadelphia May 13. . . . Arthur Donovan, referee, will officiate at a 10 round event between Buddy Knox, Dayton heavyweight, and Buddy Walker of Columbus in Columbus April 29 with the championship of Ohio at stake.

CHICAGO FENCING TEAM CAPTURES MIDWEST TITLE

Detroit, Mich., April 20 (AP).—Upsets marked the midwestern fencing tournament tonight as Michigan swordsmen won three of the four individual titles and Chicago wrested the team crown from Detroit.

Saul Karsh of the Grosse Pointe Sword club, Detroit, recorded the biggest surprise when he defeated Loyal Tingely of Chicago, 1939 champion, in the épée event. George Gafford of Columbus, O., was third. Karsh's teammate, William Osis, won in the saber division, defeating Joseph Strauss, Chicago. Robert Miller, St. Louis, was third.

The men's foils championship went to Frank Righeimer, Chicago, in a fenceoff with another Chicagoan, Jerry Mau. Oscar Barab, also of Chicago, was third.

ABC Teams Delayed by Leaky Roof

St. Paul, Minn., April 20 [Special].—For the second time in the history of the American Bowling congress a leaky roof today caused a delay in the tournament schedule. Four teams, including the Chicago Belt Freight Lines, were forced to give up after one game when the roof sprung a leak over alleys 37 and 38 following a rainstorm. When they were able to resume, the Chicagoans finished with 2,590.

A leaky roof in the Coliseum in Detroit, Mich., during last year's ABC caused the other temporary disruption of the team schedule.

Chicago bowlers turned in only two totals of 1,200 or better in doubles today, but in singles they showed up better with 19 above the 600 mark. Leo Krisch and Lee Hoerstmann led the Chicago delegation doubles with 1,206, while Rox Latelle and Andrew Wadox posted 1,200. In singles Joseph Etten was high Chicagoan with 662 on games of 187, 254, and 221.

Washington, D. C., April 20 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox, American league leaders, defeated Washington 14 to 8 today for their fifth consecutive victory. A crowd of about 18,000 watched the contest.

The undefeated Red Sox pounded young Sid Hudson for seven runs and 11 hits in the first six innings and continued the assault against Arnold Anderson, Danny Macfayden and Jim Dean. It was the Senators' fifth loss in six games.

The Red Sox collected 15 hits, including three doubles and a single by Dominic DiMaggio.

Roger Cramer of the Senators hit a long homer within the park to score three mates in front of him in the eighth. Score:

INDIANS, 4; TIGERS, 2.

Detroit, Mich., April 20 (AP).—Veterans Mel Harder and Joe Heving today enabled the Cleveland Indians to score a 4 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 19,437. Harder held the American league champions to four hits and one unearned run in eight innings, but had to give way in the ninth to Heving when the Tigers threatened. The triumph gave Cleveland the series, two games to one.

Seven errors—four by the Indians—marred the game, played in a strong wind, but the three by the Tigers proved costly.

Cleveland's two runs in the third and the winning tally in the fourth, were unearned.

Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, making his first start of the season for Detroit, left the game in the sixth after yielding all of Cleveland's hits.

The Tigers kept threatening to score. Two errors in the eighth finally let in a run, and in the ninth Barney McCosky singled, took third on Hank Greenberg's single, and scored on Rudy York's long fly. Score:

YANKS, 19; ATHLETICS, 5.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20 (AP).—The big bats of the New York Yankees crackled ominously for the rest of the American league today as a furious 18 hit assault overwhelmed the Athletics, 19 to 5.

Led by Joe DiMaggio, who drove in six runs, four of them on a homer with the bases full in the ninth, and Joe Gordon, who hit for the circuit twice and drove in five runs, the Yanks shelled two A's hurlers from the mound before 28,874 fans.

Chubby Dean, victor over Red Ruffing in their first 1941 meeting, held a 4 to 2 lead going into the fifth, but he blew up after an argument over balls and strikes with Umpire John Quinn, and six straight hits, good for eight runs, drove him to cover. Herman Besse, another left hander, replaced Dean. He was shelled from the mound in the ninth when DiMaggio hit a homer, scoring Ruffing, Phil Rizzuto, and Red Rolfe ahead of him. Gordon, who got his first four bagger in the second with one on, followed with his second homer.

Before the game Manager Connie Mack of the A's announced he had optioned Pitcher Carl Miles to Williamsport of the Eastern league, Pitcher Porter Vaughn to Toronto of the International league, and Outfielder Felix Mackiewicz to Wilmington of the Interstate league.

56,314 WATCH DODGERS CHECK GIANTS, 10 TO 9

New York, April 20 (AP).—Before 56,314 fans, largest crowd ever to see a single game in the Polo Grounds, the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Giants today, 10 to 9, for the home forces' first defeat in six starts.

The Dodgers were behind, 3 to 0, going into the sixth and 9 to 7 going into the eighth, but each time they had the power to pull up on even terms and in the ninth they finally put over the winning run.

Cookie Lavagetto and Dolph Camilli singled, their second hits of the afternoon. Alex Kampouris, who had hit a homer in the sixth with a man on, forced Lavagetto at third. Dixie Walker, pinch hitting for Arnold Owen, then drove a grounder at Babe Young. The first baseman tried for a force play at second, but his throw hit Kampouris in the head and Camilli scored from second. Mel Ott hit two homers for the Giants.

The Dodgers last year also drew the previous single game Polo Grounds record crowds, 51,629 on April 28 and 53,997 for a night game Aug. 7. The all-time high for the park is 64,417, for a double header with the Cardinals in 1936. Score:

Cubs Defeat Cardinals in Tenth, 11 to 10

Dom Drives in Two Runs.

Everything seemed to be all right after the Cubs grabbed a one run lead in their half of the third. After Myers had executed the Cubs' fifth strikeout to get the third under way and Passeau had grounded out, Hack drew his second pass and Stringer singled to left. Dallessandro sent Stan and Lou home with a double to left center. Nicholson popped out.

The Cubs' lead began to fade immediately after Passeau had thrown out Lanier at the start of the home third. Harry Walker doubled to left, then Stringer fumbled Brown's grounder, his sixth error behind Passeau in 11 1-3 innings. Moore again followed up with a single, Walker scoring and Brown reaching third. Johnny Mize doubled to left, scoring Brown and Moore. Enos Slaughter beat out an infield single, then Walker Cooper tripled to right center, scoring Mize and Slaughter. French replaced Passeau and Martin Marion tapped to Myers, Walker Cooper holding third. He scored, however, on Frank Crespi's single to left. Lanier made his second out of the inning by forcing Crespi.

Cubs Go to Work Again.

When the Cubs went to bat in the fourth they showed no signs of having just passed thru a six run whirlwind. Novikoff opened with a double to right center and scored on Russell's double to right. McCullough then drove his homer into the left field bleachers, scoring behind Russell. Morton Cooper replaced Lanier and walked Myers. French fanned, but Hack hit a homer on the roof of the right field pavilion, scoring behind Myers to tie the score at 7-all.

Luck abandoned the Cubs completely in the Cardinals' fourth. Walker beat out a bunt and stopped at second on Brown's infield hit. Moore bunted to French for a single and Larry's throw to first hit Moore in the back. The ball caromed into right field, Walker and Brown scoring and Moore reaching third. Russell disposed of Mize and Slaughter while Moore clung to third, but Stringer made a low throw after capturing Walker Cooper's grounder, Moore scoring. Marion filed to Novikoff.

With French shutting out the Cards, the Cubs started the overtaking process again in the sixth. McCullough opened with a single, paused while Myers struck out and French filed out, then went to third on Hack's single and scored on Stringer's double. Dallessandro struck out.

Nicholson Connects.

Nicholson opened the seventh with his homer into the thorofare beyond the right field pavilion.

Hack opened the eighth with a single to left and advanced on Stringer's sacrifice. Dallessandro singled to center, scoring Hack with the tying run. Nahem replaced Morton Cooper, and Nicholson was given an intentional pass, but was forced by Novikoff. Russell struck out.

TWO HORSES TOO MUCH FOR FINN IN 35 MILE RACE

Charleston, S. C., April 20 (AP).—Dr. Arne L. Suominen, 41 year old physician and native of Finland, saw one horse collapse under the grind and then completed his 35 mile marathon at the Jockey club track today only a mile and a half behind the second horse pitted against him.

The first horse, Lady, owned by John Marchotisis and ridden by Pete Trakalas, collapsed after eight miles of the man-equine endurance contest.

Starting at 2:13 p. m., in the heat of a summerlike day, Dr. Suominen stopped only a few times for a rub-down administered by his wife, and finished his run at 7:28 p. m. The second horse had crossed the finish line 12 minutes earlier.

At the time the second horse entered the race the physician was trailing by two miles. The second horse, Lightning, also owned by Marchotsis, was ridden by Ogden Haynes.

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—The world champion Cincinnati Reds will be in Chicago tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday, their first visit to the shores of Lake Michigan since winning the title last October. Manager Jim Wilson of the Cubs, who had such a big part in the Reds' conquest of the Detroit Tigers last autumn, is so anxious to take the series that he sent the Cubs home this evening in a special train. Usually the Cubs return from St. Louis overnight, which is all right except when the engineer has a grouch.

Bill Lee, a persistent holdout until April 11, will pitch for the Cubs in the Reds-Cubs opener tomorrow, the weather permitting. Johnny Vander Meer is slated to pitch for the champions.

There were few evidences of yesterday's rains at the ball park today. The sun was bright, but failed to throw the warmth it usually casts on St. Louis this late in the spring.

Manager Wilson, who stayed in bed yesterday to nurse a cold, was feeling much better today.

PAROLEE SEIZED IN AUTO ASSAULT AFTER BEATING

Accused of Driving Car Twice Over Victim.

Anthony De Steffano.

Anthony De Steffano, will-o'-the-wisp parolee bandit sought as the driver of a car which deliberately was driven twice over a helpless man, was captured yesterday. Sergt. Timothy O'Connell, leader of the detective squad that seized him, said De Steffano had eluded the squad in two automobile chases in the last few days. O'Connell said De Steffano tried to run him down in the street at the start of the second chase.

O'Connell has made a city-wide search for De Steffano since the morning of March 18. Early that morning a dispute occurred in the Pelican Tap saloon, 29 East Ohio street. It was followed by a street brawl in which Robert De Marzio, 40, was beaten to the pavement.

Traced Thru Car License.

A car was backed over his prostrate form and then driven forward over him. Witnesses noted the license lumber. Police said the license had been issued under a fictitious name to De Steffano.

A few minutes later Detectives Anthony Bongiorno and Charles McAllister halted a speeding car at Adams street and Racine avenue after a chase. The driver drew a gun and fled on foot.

Bongiorno shot the driver's hat off, but he escaped. Others in the car said the driver was De Steffano.

On Friday night O'Connell saw, parked in front of 24 South Loomis street, a car which De Steffano since had been using. De Steffano appeared presently, and O'Connell drew his gun and stepped in front of the car. De Steffano, O'Connell said, stepped on the gas and tried to run over him. O'Connell leaped aside and emptied his gun at the vanishing car. He and his squad then tried in vain to capture De Steffano.

Identified by 3 Witnesses.

Yesterday O'Connell and his men surprised De Steffano as he was waiting for a street car at Harrison and Dearborn streets and arrested him. He gave his age as 27 and his address as 1437 Jackson boulevard.

Police took him to the detective bureau showup, where he was identified by three witnesses as one of the robber gang that held up Ulrich Vogt's grocery at 1159 Adams street March 6 and took $600. The police were holding another parolee, Salvatore Aquilera, and a third man, Vito Vicheone, as suspects in this robbery.

De Steffano, who had $100 in his pocket when arrested, refused to discuss the robbery or the attack on De Marzio. Police said he also used the names of Charles Schippa and James De Vino.

The police said his records show he was arrested Jan. 6, 1932, on a charge of assault with intent to murder, but that this charge was dismissed. On April 16, 1934, they said, he was sentenced to one year to life in prison for armed robbery. He was paroled Jan. 24, 1940.

AMERICAN GIFTS TO BRITISH RELIEF TOP 3½ MILLIONS

Americans have contributed $3,505,000 in cash and merchandise thru the British War Relief society to aid civilian war victims in Great Britain, Charles F. Glore, Illinois chairman of the society, reported yesterday.

Emphasizing that the continued need among air raid victims is urgent, Glore made public a list of the major purposes for which the gifts were used. He said the contributions are those made prior to the current civilian aid campaign in which the society seeks to raise 20 million dollars, one million in Illinois. He said additional accountings will be made from time to time.

Of the total, which does not include an estimated million dollars in gifts of knitted goods, bandages or similar necessities, $260,000 went for mobile feeding kitchens, $1,155,000 for merchandise, exclusive of wool, purchased in the United States, $1,605,000 in cash remittances to agencies in Great Britain, and $485,000 in money or merchandise to the British Red Cross and the Central Hospital Supply service. The latter remittance was made before the arrangement under which the American Red Cross now handles such cash donations.

9 FALSE ALARMS IN 3 HOURS KEEP FIREMEN BUSY

Firemen in the Englewood and stockyards districts were kept busy early yesterday responding to false alarm calls. Nine such alarms were sounded in that area between 3:30 a. m. and 6:30 a. m. Police squads were unable to find the prankster.

Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan said the alarms probably were sounded by the person who turned in more than 50 false alarms on the south side two months ago. He warned that the matter is not a practical joke and that a serious accident might result from a false alarm call.

The first fire box was pulled at 47th street and Marshfield avenue and the last at 53d and Loomis streets. Firemen said the prankster evidently had a key for the boxes.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PRICES OF USED AUTOS TO RISE, DEALERS WARN

Result of Expected Cut in New Output.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Used car prices are expected to advance when the effects of automobile production curtailment—the result of the armament program—are felt, leaders in Chicago's automobile business said yesterday. Already there has been a tendency toward firmer prices, it was said, and real advances may be expected some months hence.

Lynn S. Snow reports record stocks of used cars.

The recent rush to buy new automobiles in anticipation of higher prices and taxes has caused dealers to be stocked with the largest proportion of cars three years old or less in history. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the cars taken in are one year old or less, 25 per cent two years old, and 25 per cent three years old.

Widest Choice Offered.

As a result of this unusual situation the prospective used car buyer has the widest choice of comparatively new cars in the history of the automobile business, said Lynn S. Snow, Oak Park Ford dealer and president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association. He said that altho prices are not quite so low as they have been, they still represent bargains in comparison with what is expected later in the year.

Curtailment of new car production is expected to ease the used car problem, at least for the time being, for the average dealer To sell a new car the dealer must take the buyer's old car in trade, and to sell the car taken in the deal he usually has to take in a second used car. Thus to sell one new car the average dealer must sell two used cars.

Much Capital Tied Up.

Samuel B. Shapiro, executive secretary of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, estimates that the average sales value of the car taken in trade on a new car is about $300. The average time in disposing of a used car is about 40 days. For this reason the dealer must keep a substantial amount of his capital tied up in used cars.

When the full effects of the curtailment of new car production are felt the public will have to supply a large part of its demand in the used car market, Shapiro said.

With so many plants—and particularly arms manufacturing plants—being built in localities distant from street car and bus lines the value of the automobile for transportation is enhanced. All these factors augur well for the future sale of used cars and should help the dealer to keep his capital liquid.

Adverse Market Factors.

One factor, however, that may mitigate against sales is the possibility of a tightening in instalment selling. It has been reported that instalment periods may be shortened and larger down payments demanded.

Reduced buying power on the part of the public as a result of the new taxes to pay for armaments may be another adverse factor, it was said.

LONDON STOCK MARKET FIRM DESPITE BOMBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 20.—The stock market last week made a good showing in the face of Wednesday night's mass bombing of London. Prices, which had been depressed by events in the Balkans and near east, held mostly unchanged. The giltedged market, however, became a trifle firmer on reports of British naval activity in the Mediterranean. Despite this some shares such as Anglo-Iranian oil and Egyptian Unified remained weak.

Destruction caused by bombs, altho not reflected in market dealings, did have the effect of intensifying the rush on insurance offices for policies to cover business equipment under the government's war damage act.

This plan, compulsory for all equipment worth more than $4,000 went into force the same day the Germans launched the biggest raid London has experienced. Business houses had 30 days in which to take out policies, and employers who arrived to find their offices standing intact amid débris rushed off to buy insurance.

Armament Billions Give Fillip to Nickel Cigars

New York, April 20 (AP).—Many a worker who used to smoke cigars selling two for five cents or three for a dime now is splurging on nickel cigars. Business observers today cited the rise in nickel cigar sales as another indication of how armament billions are making the rounds of the trade counters.

"BIG FIVE" BANKS.

What country has the biggest banks, the United States or Great Britain?—R. B.

Answer: The United States has the three largest commercial banks in the English speaking world, according to a classification of leading banks in the United States and the British empire on the basis of total deposits at the end of 1940.

The five largest banks, ranked according to their deposits are Chase National bank, National City bank, Guaranty Trust company, all of New York City; Midland Bank, Ltd., and Barclays Bank, Ltd., both of London.

The foremost position of the American banks indicates the shift of capital in recent years from England to this country. In 1927, when a similar classification first was made, the five largest banks were all in London—Midland bank, Lloyds bank, Barclay's bank, Westminster bank, and National Provincial bank. Lloyds is now in sixth place, Westminster in seventh, and National Provincial in ninth.

PATENT "GRAB" PLAN FOUGHT BY INDUSTRY GROUP

The proposed form of legislation now being considered by congress to permit the seizure of patents or inventions by the federal government will be opposed by Illinois industry, the Illinois Manufacturers' association declared yesterday.

Contending that the proposal in its present form would hinder rather than assist the armament program, the patent committee of the association announced that Carlton Hill, its technical adviser, will urge modification of the bill at a hearing of the house of representatives patents committee tomorrow in Washington.

The act provides that the right of injunction for alleged infringement shall be denied during the period of emergency declared by the President in the case of any patents certified by an established federal armament agency as important or necessary in the arming program. The manufacturer group contends that industry has no protection under the program.

STEEL INDUSTRY FLOODED BY NEW WAVE OF ORDERS

Cleveland, O., April 20 (AP).—With steel makers worried about prices, a new wave of demand has hit the industry as premature warm weather revived outdoor projects, the magazine Steel said today:

"Some makers report improvement in orders by as much as 20 per cent over the similar March period," the review said. "It is expected that 1941 production will have been 95 per cent sold by May 1, with only some 10 items still obtainable, including floor plates, wire rope, nails, manufacturers' wire, fencing, merchant pipe, bolts and nuts, tool steel and castings, on all of which prompt delivery still can be obtained.

"Tho slowing down in demand has been reported, frequently in fabricated shapes actual sales in April ran far ahead of March when the average was 20,000 tons weekly."

RAILROADS' CAR ORDER VOLUME ABOVE YEAR AGO

Class 1 railroads on April 1 had on order 42,335 new freight cars and 335 new locomotives, increases of 21,223 and 220, respectively, over the totals of a year earlier, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

New freight cars put in service in the first three months of 1941 totaled 18,464, compared with 20,253 in the same period last year. New locomotives entering service numbered 123, against 79.

More troops, draftees, and members of the Civilian Conservation corps were moved by the railroads in March than during any other month since the armament program began, the association announced.

U.S. MAY MOVE TO END COAL MINES TIEUP

Outline Ways Open to Government.

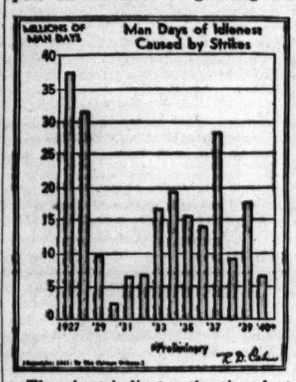
Washington, D. C., April 20 [Special].—With the bituminous coal strike pinching harder on steel companies working on rearmament orders, it was believed here tonight that the government would move within the next 24 hours to settle the strike or to get the mines reopened pending further negotiations.

Four possible courses of action which may be taken to get coal flowing to essential industries are:

1. President Roosevelt may appeal to the northern operators, who have reached a tentative agreement with the United Mine Workers of America [CIO] on a new contract providing a $1 daily wage increase, to reopen their mines immediately, or he may ask that both northern and southern mines be reopened, with final wage agreements reached to be retroactive.

May Get White House Call.

2. The President may call operators of both regions and the union to the White House in an attempt personally to settle the differences. It was recalled that two years ago when the operators and the miners were in dispute on the issue of granting the union shop to the miners Mr. Roosevelt called them to the White House to a conference which resulted in acceptance of the union shop.



The chart indicates the time lost thru strikes in recent years.

3. The President may suggest to the southern operators that they return to New York for negotiations separate from the meetings with the northern operators. John L. Lewis, union leader, has said that if the southerners will return to that city for negotiation he is sure that an agreement will be speedily reached. But the southern operators charge that the northern operators and Lewis are "trying to snare us back in the Appalachian joint conference which we dissolved and to which we do not propose to return." However, the southern operators have offered to boost wages 60 cents a day and reopen the mines at once.

Mediation Is Possible.

4. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins may certify the entire strike or just the southern phase to the national defense mediation board.

L. T. Putman, Berkley, W. Va., a spokesman for the southern operators, said his group has had no contact with either the union or the government.

Yesterday the secretary of labor appealed to the northern operators and the union to reopen the northern mines. This the northerners refused to do until the southern operators came to terms with the union.

The split between the northern and southern operators developed out of the union's demand for elimination of the 40 cents a day wage differential previously enjoyed by the south. The union asks that the basic daily wage for the entire nation be fixed at $7, against the old rate of $6 in the north and $5.60 in the south.
